Scottish Air-Mail Letter

Bannockburn Relic Saved: Sir Malcolm
Watson And Tropical Medicine: A
Tale Of Two Fighters: Scottish
Freemasonry: Two Scottish
Chairmen

(Special Air-Mail Service)

PRIME MINISTER'S RELATION

Edinburgh, Aug. 9.

The Prime Minister is greatly elated at the success of his efforts in ensuring that the Bannockburn relic—the Monymusk Reliquary—has been saved for Scotland.

It may be recalled that Mr.
Ramsay MacDonald's personal appeal moved Lord Wakefield to come forward two years ago, and to furnish £11,000 in order to win
the historic Howard Grace Cup
(associated with Thomas a Becket)
for the Victoria and Albert Museum.

THE MONYMUSK RELIQUARY

Every patriotic Scot will, in fact,
hall with delight the announcement that the National Art-Collections Fund (which knows no frontiers) has succeeded in ensuring the acquisition for Scotland of that "blessed speckled" casket
known as the Monymusk Reliquary, which the "Abbot of Arbroath"
bore triumphantly before
Bruce's army at Bannockburn.

The Scottish family which had inherited this holy relic—once holding one of the bones of St.
Columba—had sent the little wooden casket, overlaid with Celtic silver plaques, to Christie's for public sale.

A shiver went through Scotland at the mere prospect. On the eve of the projected sale the reliquary was withdrawn. Forthwith, Dr.
Graham Callander, of the National Museum of Antiquities, Edinburgh, got to work.

Fortified by the practical sympathy of the Prime Minister—one of the earliest subscribers—he appealed to his countrymen to save the Bannockburn mascot for Scotland. The purchase price was £2,500. The State grant to the museum is only £200.

A few days ago Dr. Callander was able to report that he had been able to collect £1,140; and he thereupon begged the National Art-Collections Fund to complete the good work. This public-spirited association promptly acceded to the request by sending the balance of £1,360, so that the famous reliquary might be bought, by private treaty, through Christie's.

APPEAL TO EXILED SCOTS

At the same time the Council of the Fund feel that there must be many Scots, living in exile in this country, who would be glad to be associated with this laudable purchase.

Accordingly, all such are invited to send their donations to the Secretary of the National Art-Collections
Fund, Hertford House, W. 1.
Never, perhaps, was the line in Burns's poem, "Bannockburn," more appropriate:

"Now's the day, and now's the hour."

And others, besides Scots, may be glad of the opportunity. I may remind Americans, for example, that the manuscript copy of "Bannockburn" which Burns gave to the Earl of Buchan, is carefully preserved at Harvard.

SCOTTISH MALARIAL EXPERT

Sir Malcolm Watson, who is to be director of the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, will maintain the Scottish line in that Imperial post. The late Sir Robert Balfour held the post for many years. He hailed from Edinburgh. Sir Malcolm belongs to Bridge of Allan. He is a graduate of Glasgow University, and was for some years house surgeon and physician in Glasgow Royal Infirmity before he went to Malay,
where he first established his fame
as one of the greatest authorities on malaria.

He was associated with the late
Sir Ronald Ross in his discoveries and research, and succeeded him in the directorship of the Ross Institute. Sir Malcolm is a charming personality. His work has taken him to every tropical country of the British Empire, and he is equally well-known in Geneva
as an adviser at successive international conferences on tropical diseases.

A SCOTTISH NATIONALIST

These are the days of Scottish nationalism, and, in spite of hard times, its revival is occasionally celebrated with the national beverage.

An old soldier, after a patriotic meeting in a Highland village, got into a train travelling to Inverness.
Rather unsteadily he sat down
beside a Salvation Army officer.
For some time he gazed at the officer's uniform with profound concentration. At last he broke into speech: "What's yer regiment, man? I canna mak it out."

To which the officer replied: "I am a soldier of the Lord. I go to Inverness, where the Devil, thence to Aberdeen, to fight him again,
and then down to Dundee, Edinburgh and Newcastle."

The exhilarated patriot struggled to his feet and gave the officer a resounding clap on the back.

"That's richt, ma man," he said.
"Keep on heading the blighter South."

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND

A quarterly communication of the Grand Lodge of Scotland was held in the Freemasons' Hall,
George Street, Edinburgh, yesterday. Lord Belhaven and Stenton, Grand Master Mason, before proceeding to the ordinary business, made sympathetic reference to the death of Lord Saltoun, a Past Grand Master.

It was reported that the income for the period from November 24 last to July 15, amounted to £7238 9s 10d, as compared with £7681 3s 4d for the corresponding period in 1931-32, a decrease of £444 13s 6d.

A charter was granted to the new Lodge Afghan, Rampur, United Provinces, India.

Brother William Rennie was appointed Provincial Grand Master of Roxburgh, Peebles, and Selkirk shires. The Rev. Robert J. Thompson, on his return from that office, was thanked for his services to the Scottish Craft.

commemorate the men of the Canadian Scottish Regiment who fell in the war. Canadian battalions attached to the Black Watch, the Seaforths, the Camerons, and other Scottish regiments are spec-mental memorials," but the Canadian Scottish is to have a separate memorial erected in the west bay, where Princess Mary, Colonel-in-Chief of the Royal Scots, on her recent visit laid a wreath to the memory of the men of the Canadian Regiment, the Royal Scots.

PASSING OF THE "BRADBURY"

Memories Of A Great Event

THE CRISIS OF 1914

London, Aug. 9.
On Saturday, August 1, 1914, an unwanted spectacle was to be seen at the Bank of England, an excited crowd changing banknotes into gold coin. People even sat on the steps in the quadrangle of the Bank, counting out sovereigns.

The war crisis had cut right across the delicate strands of credit. The joint-stock banks, in an access of panic, had refused to pay out gold and compelled their customers to take notes. But five-pound notes were no use to pay wages, and when the joint-stock banks clung to their gold, the public were compelled to get sovereigns from the Bank of England.

Emergency measures followed. The Currency and Bank Notes Act, 1914, authorised an issue of paper money, currency notes for £1 and 10s. issued not by the Bank of England but by the Treasury, and legally current in the same manner as gold coin. The notes had to be improvised in a few days. Water-marked paper takes time to manufacture, and recourse was had to the stocks in the hands of the Post Office for postage stamps. Round the edge of each big sheet was water-marked the word "Postage", and occasionally a note with a broken fragment such as "Stag", upon it would come under suspicion among the public.

Sir John Bradbury

Sir John (now Lord) Bradbury was at that time, Permanent Secretary of the Treasury, and his signature in facsimile, which appeared on the notes gave them the same of "Bradburys."

By August 7 the first consignment of notes was delivered to the banks to the amount of £4,130,000. That was quick work, but it was nevertheless necessary for the Bank of England to exceed its fiduciary issue on August 7 and 8. Postal orders had also been made temporarily legal tender and free of postage. The notes were joint-stock banks. But this method soon made way for a direct issue by the Bank of England to any depositor who chose to cash a cheque. The equivalent of notes issued was credited to the Treasury. Thus the notes were being used to finance the war. That did not mean unlimited inflation. The limits were imposed through the credit system, and particularly the control of the foreign exchanges, the exchange on New York being pegged at 4.75 from the end of 1915.

After a few months the first hastily contrived issue of currency notes was withdrawn and replaced by a more considered design. This, like the first, was in black and white. But a coloured design, with a picture of the Houses of Parliament on the one-pound notes, followed later, and remained in circulation to the end. By the end of the war the currency notes in circulation had reached £340,000,000. Parliament had never enacted any gold reserve requirement, but the Treasury had accumulated a reserve of £28,500,000. The gold coin in circulation in 1914 (outside the Bank of England) had been estimated at £123,000,000.

Gold Standard Goes

In March, 1918, the link between the pound and the dollar was broken, and by the prohibition of the export of gold the gold standard was suspended. In December, 1919, the Treasury issued a Minute (an executive regulation with no statutory force) limiting for the future the uncovered issue of currency notes and providing for a gradual reduction of the limit. The wild inflation of 1919-20 brought the pound down to 83.20 in February 1920, but there followed a period of severe deflation which gradually raised it till the return to the gold standard at the old parity of 84.66 became possible in April, 1927. At that time the uncovered currency notes amounted to £248,000,000, and it was impossible to restore the general circulation of gold coin. Ever since their first issue the notes had been legally convertible into gold coin at the Bank of England, but so long as the gold coin could neither be exported nor melted it was no use to anyone and convertibility was inoperative. When the gold standard was restored, together with free export of gold, the convertibility into gold coin was abandoned, and a gold bullion standard, based on convertibility into large gold bars, was adopted. The passage of gold coin into circulation was prevented, but convertibility became a reality for the purposes of the market in gold.

The Final Phase

The final phase came with the Currency and Bank Notes Act of 1928. (Continued on next column.)

DR. HU SHIH-IN CHICAGO

"Making Haste Slowly"

TOWARDS WESTERN WAYS

Chicago.—Stumbling along in adjusting itself to the new world, China is nevertheless working ahead toward a new civilization, Dr. Hu Shih, a new civilisation, Dr. Hu Shih, declared at the University of Chicago. The noted Chinese scholar, who is credited with bringing on the recent language reform of China, is reporting on cultural trends in modern China.

The ideas of the Western World were imposed on Japan from above, by the ruling class, said Dr. Hu Shih. In China, Western civilization made its way up through the masses.

"The advantages of such an orderly and efficient progress as prevailed in Japan are obvious," commented the professor of philosophy at the National University of Peking, "but there are some important disadvantages. Japanese leaders undertook this rapid transformation at a time when even the most far-sighted could see and understand only superficial phases of the Western civilization. Many other phases have escaped their attention."

"In short, the rapid cultural transformation in Japan has been achieved with too great a speed and at too early a date to allow sufficient time for the new ideas and influences to penetrate into the native institutions and attain a more thorough cultural readjustment."

"The whole affair has assumed the form of engraving an alien culture on the stock of traditional Japan. Much of the traditional culture is artificially protected by a strong shell of militant and nationalistic sentiment. Much that is preserved is of great beauty and permanent value; but not a little of it is primitive and pregnant of grave dangers of volcanic eruption."

"Whereas control in Japan has been in the hands of the ruling class, the cultural changes in China have always been from the people. Such changes are necessarily slow, but sometimes they can be very rapid. It took less than a year for bobbed hair to become a fashion in all the cities. Even the use of the spoken language in writing, both prose and poetry, in place of the classical literary language was adopted among all young students in the course of only three or four years."

"The disadvantages of such diffused processes of cultural penetration are numerous; they are slow, desultory, sometimes blind and indiscriminate, and often wasteful. But there are also undeniable advantages. They are voluntary; that is, a new idea or usage must first convince the people of its distinct superiority in utility or convenience before it can acquire general acceptance. The changes often come about by almost imperceptible replacement or modification of the old by the new."

"If anything is retained of the old, or any of the old things is thrown overboard, both the conservation and the change have been voluntary and probably practical and reasonable."

"In this way, China has also succeeded in bringing about a cultural transformation which, though painfully slow and piecemeal, and lacking coordination and coherency, may yet culminate in solving some of our basic problems of life and culture, and achieve a new civilization not incompatible with the spirit of the New World."

THE ARMY

Military Appointments

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, August 9.
The War Office announces the following appointments:—
Colonel F. S. Thackeray, D.S.O., M.C., to be Commander, Shanghai Area, the British troops in China, the appointment to take effect in the latter part of 1933.

1923. Following a recommendation of the Cunliffe Committee, which had reported in 1918 on Currency and Foreign Exchange after the War, the Act authorised the issue of Bank of England notes of £1 and 10/- to replace the currency notes. The new Bank of England notes have the characteristics of currency notes in that, unlike notes of £5 and upwards, they are legal tender in payments by the Bank itself. But they purport to be "promises to pay," whereas a currency note claims to be legal tender and nothing else. The difference is one of form, for there is no medium in which the Bank is bound to make payment. The sale of gold bars is not "payment."

The greater part of the currency notes were soon withdrawn, but the Act followed them to remain in circulation and "deemed" them to be Bank notes till such time as the Bank should call them in. That last step has now been taken and they have ceased to be legal tender. (though, of course, the Bank itself will still give its own notes in exchange for them.)

DUKE'S ROLE IN TATTOO

Captures A Motor Bandit

TIDWORTH THRILLS AND COMEDY

(Special Air-Mail Service)

Tidworth, Aug. 9.—The smart capture of a modern Dick Turpin by the Duke of Gloucester, in the role of a mobile police officer, and the rescue of Beauty from a mechanical dragon by St. George (1933 version) on a motor-cycle—these are incidents in the Tidworth Tattoo.

This tattoo, which has been organised by the Southern Command on Salisbury Plain, gives a revealing glimpse into the non-stop variety of Army life. It starts on Saturday and continues for the whole of next week, with accommodation for nearly 30,000 people a night.

As a captain in the 11th Hussars the Duke of Gloucester naturally takes part in his regiment's "turn," but before it was time for him to take his cue he sat in the grandstand engrossed in the show and surrounded by the children of his fellow officers. He laughed with them at the antics of the mounted clown, and shared their wonder at the wheeling motor-cycles, the careering horses, and the colourful tableaux.

St. George's Motor-Cycle

This "Aldershot-in-brief" has been organised by men with an appreciation of the changing demands of the modern public, with the result that they have produced a spectacle from which even Mr. Cochran might take a few tips. Here is no humdrum parade of Army drill and manoeuvres—it shows the romance of fighting men and the glory of regiments which have coloured history with their deeds.

The scene in which the Duke took part contrasts the Dick Turpin of 200 years ago with his modern equivalent, the motor bandit. The first episode, showing the hold-up of the London-York mail coach, changes to reveal the Great North Road bearing modern limousines and sports cars to and from the city. While one car is about to be robbed by Dick Turpin's successor a fast police car, with the Duke of Gloucester at the wheel, disturbs the bandits.

The Duke immediately sends out a wireless S.O.S. and the gang are caught. The Duke showed himself to be a first-class driver, but the crowd which cheered the car's sixty-mile-an-hour dash across the turf had no idea of the driver's identity. As far as the tattoo is concerned the Duke is just a captain in the 11th Hussars doing his job of work well with the rest of the men.

Costs Of £10 A Minute.

Gen. Sir Percy Radcliffe, General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, told me that none of the expense of the tattoo falls upon Army funds.

"Everything is hired from the War Office," he said, "and their charges are sometimes pretty stiff. For instance, their charge for a tank is £1 a mile. The tattoo costs £9,000 to run—£10 a minute—which is roughly one-third of the total takings."

"The profits will be devoted to welfare and recreational funds of the troops throughout the whole command and to charitable institutions which assist Service men or ex-Service men and their families. Since the inception of the tattoo £21,000 has been given to these objects."

MARLENE FLASHES BY

In Scarlet Velvet Trousers

(Special Air-Mail Service)

Paris, Aug. 9.
Vivid scarlet velvet is the material of the latest trousers with which Miss Marlene Dietrich, the film star, has stunned Paris.

Clad in these brilliant "brooks," Miss Dietrich arrived back in Paris last night from Cannes, apparently ignoring the general warning issued by M. Chiappe, the Paris Police Prefect, when she was here a few months ago that women who caused crowds to gather in the streets by wearing masculine garb were liable to arrest.

"The public does not understand," said the film star plaintively, "that I honestly do prefer trousers, and that my wearing of them is not an affectation."

Miss Dietrich, however, will not give Paris much opportunity to appreciate her latest fashion, for she is leaving at once for Switzerland, accompanied by her husband and little daughter.—British United Press.

Canton.—Mr. Tang Shao Yi, standing member of the South-West Political Council and former Premier of the Helping Government, will arrive here to-day from Tongchuan to attend the meeting of the Kuomintang South-west Executive Committee. Mr. Tang is concurrently magistrate of Chungshan Model County and will come to Canton via Macao.—Central Press.

"CAVALCADE"

Lancashire Boys In

The Cast

To start a career as a chemist and end up a comedian is not such a far cry after all, both fight "Old Man Depression," and both wage war with varying degrees of success. But very few chemists desert the test tube for the make-up box. Frank Atkinson, the British stage comedian is one exception. He was born in Blackpool in 1893 and after attending school there, studied chemistry at the University of London.

When he was 18 he decided that he couldn't do people much good that way and made up his mind that he could more easily promote health and happiness by the use of the "gig." He went into vaudeville. His first Hollywood film part is a small but important one in the Fox Film of Noel Coward's "Cavalcade."

He appears as a comedian in an English seaside concert party. For years he toured the English stage in musical comedy, he has also played in no fewer than 14 West End Theatres. For three years he was at Daly's and then he joined Sir Alfred Butt, manager at that time of the Drury Lane Theatre.

He married a stage artist well known in London—Jeanne D'Arcy—who beats his West End record by two. She has played in 16 London Theatres. During the war he left both chemistry and foolery alone and became both serious and air minded. He was an officer in the flying corps, and had many remarkable escapades from duty as a war ace. At Vimy his machine was brought down from a height of 12,000 feet.

His work in "Cavalcade" is so good that he is to appear in other films with the well known English Comedian Maudie. These two will, it is expected, shortly appear as a new Hollywood comedy couple—in films similar to "Laurel and Hardy." Herbert Mundin who plays one of the chief roles in "Cavalcade" is like Frank Atkinson, a Lancashire boy who remained "undiscovered" until he went to Hollywood.

"SKYSCRAPER SOULS"

At The Oriental

Imagine the world's tallest building—the 102 story Empire State Building in New York City—with all the drama, romance and bits of humour which make up the lives of the thousands of men and women, toiling on its many floors. This is the structure around which "Skyscraper Souls", opening on Wednesday and Thursday at the "Oriental Theatre, has been woven.

This drama of the struggling souls of a big city building from the faith Baldwin novel, "Skyscraper." Warren William and Maureen O'Sullivan head an outstanding cast which includes Gregory Ratoff, Anita Page, Verree Teasdale, Norman Foster, George Barbier, Jean Hersholt, Wallace Ford, Hedda Hopper, Helen Coburn and John Marston.

Has Complicated Plot.

All of the action of "Skyscraper Souls" takes place in and around a replica of the world's tallest building. The plot involves a fight for ownership of the skyscraper, an attempted looting of the safe of a diamond merchant, frenzied speculation by a pool working in the stock brokerage office of the skyscraper and all the big and little romances, the schemes and rivalries that affect the lives of those who toil in the building.

"LAUGHTER IN HELL"

AT CENTRAL THEATRE

Jim Tully's smashing story of a chain gang's expose now brought to the screen deals with their methods and their diabolical schemes. Pat O'Brien and Merna Kennedy play the leads in this powerful drama. Pat O'Brien is the young Irishman who, pays for his passions in the fullest measure. Merna Kennedy gives a bewitching performance as the faithless wife who finds her flirtations lead to tragedy. Others in the cast are:—

Lew Kelly, Clarence Muse and Gloria Stuart and many others. This is showing to-day at the Central Theatre.

CHAPTER 4

Mina was being jostled by the crowds, still looking around everywhere for the one who took her purse. Suddenly she was caught in a procession of dancers and whirled up another one of the side streets. Giovanni came as far as the side streets, looked around once or twice with his eyes closed, obviously not trying to find any body. Then he went back to Angela. In the meantime Angela had noticed a small cafe across the street with a few tables on the side walk, some of which were occupied. She sauntered across the street and sat down. From inside the cafe could be heard the soft music of an accordion and a violin. Giovanni, returning walked over to her table. I could not see her any where, he said. Oh, dear, Angela started to get up. You'd better wait here—you might both miss each other. He noticed that she seemed somewhat doubtful about this. If you are afraid of being seen—why don't you go inside? She looked toward the interior and saw that the cafe was practically empty. If you prefer I'll stay out here, Giovanni said as she continued to hesitate. Cross my heart. Would you mind? Angela asked. She got up and went into the cafe. After a second's pause, Giovanni followed her in. Now you sit down right over here he said. Angela looked over sharply, though finding it difficult to conceal her amusement over his bold persistence. He indicated a table in a secluded corner. "and I'll wait outside. Would you like something to drink some tea or something? No, thank you. You are being very nice, though. That's my better nature coming out," Giovanni said cockily. Here he handed her a whistle which he pulled from his uniform, if any one attacks you; blow this three times. He bowed and went into the front part of the cafe. Giovanni sat down at a vacant table. Suddenly he looked off toward the opposite street as he saw Mina, with her hat on the side of her head and showing evidence of the jostling she had received from the crowd. She managed to extricate herself and started in the direction of the cafe. Angela was seated so that she could not see the street outside except by turning her head. Giovanni came in and stood between her and the street. I didn't whistle Angela said in surprise. Are you sure? I could have sworn I heard a whistle. There's a horrible draught in here isn't there? He closed the door, further cutting off any possibility of Angela meeting Mina. I don't really—Angela said half rising. What's the matter don't you trust me? Yes, but—He sat down facing the door. Mind if I sit down? It's awfully lonely out there. I can see just as well here. Please don't be worried. It's just about father—

Sheila Terry excited over being the sole member of the feminine sex to be seen in the cast of "The Silk Express." Not even a woman extra is visible throughout the picture.

Bette Davis and her husband planning a three months' cruise around the world—provided Bette can persuade the production heads of Warner Bros. to grant her that long a leave of absence. The trip, if and when it occurs, will be in the nature of a belated honeymoon.

If you don't want to make pretty Claire Dodd angry, don't suggest to her, even in the subtlest, most complimentary way, that she looks, acts, walks or dresses like Garbo.

George Arliss is sponsoring an anti-vivisection petition which has recently been circulated about Hollywood.

William Powell has what is probably the smallest "den" in existence in his Beverly Hills home. When Bill is in, it is seated at his desk, there is room for only one other person—and he must stand up.

By special dispensation of the manager, Ruby Keeler (Mrs. Al Johnson) is permitted to take her Pompadour into the studio restaurant with her. He sits on a chair by her side while she eats.

Barbara Bebe Daniels, infant daughter of Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon, believes every woman's voice she hears singing over the radio is her mother's. Bebe is not complimentary.

One of the mild sensations on the Warner Bros. First National lot in recent days has been seeing Ruth Chatterton, the "first lady of the screen" in long black tights.

Helen Hayes made her first screen appearance in 1910 as a child with "Jean," dog star, in a Vitaphone picture, called "Jean and the Calico Doll"?

"THE GOOD COM. PANIONS"

This is a Brilliant-talking picture version of J. B. Priestley's famous novel, to be shown at some future date at one of the local theatres. All who have "travelled the road" with Inigo Jolliffe, Jess Oleroyd, Morton Mitcham and a host of other merry vagabonds and have followed the fortunes of Susie Dean with interest, will learn with pleasure that these lovable characters of J. B. Priestley's novel have come to life in this magnificent talkie which is to be shown at one of the theatres here. The initial screening of this production was accorded the gracious patronage of our Mejsies the King and Queen. In fact it was the King's first talkie. This royal approval of a brilliant British talkie brought to a happy climax a production rightly regarded as the most ambitious directorial effort from any Jessie Matthews, John Gielgud, Edmund Ewen, A. W. Baskcomb and Mary Glynn.

In "Ladies They Talk About"

For the first time on screen, Barbara Stanwyck is seen as a blonde in certain scenes of "Ladies They Talk About," her newest Warner Bros. starring picture. The film, based on the story by Dorothy Mackaye and Carlton Miles, was directed by Howard Bretherton and William Keighley. In the cast, besides Miss Stanwyck, are Preston S. Foster, Lillian Roth, Lyle Talbot, Dorothy Burgess, Ruth Donnelly, Robert McWade, Maude Eburne, Cecil Cunningham, Grace Guard, Helen Mann and others.

"THE MYSTERY OF THE WAX MUSEUM"

The vividly lifelike wax figures of Joan of Arc, Henry of Navarre, Voltaire, Queen Elizabeth, Don Juan and other famous folk that are seen in "The Mystery of the Wax Museum," the new Warner Bros. all-Technicolor thriller, are to be presented by the producers to one of the leading California universities, according to advices from the Coast. The institution in question has a museum devoted to relics of European and American history, and the present intention of the authorities is to set apart a special section for the waxworks because of their authenticity in likeness and costume and their consequent educational value. All the wax figures seen in "The Mystery of the Wax Museum" were specially made for the film by experts and the details were based on careful historical research.

"LAUGHTER IN HELL"

Picturesque Hero Of A Fine Film

Jim Tully, whose latest realistic drama, "Laughter in Hell" has been screened by Universal, and now playing at the Central Theatre, is one of the most picturesque figures in American literature.

The stocky, red-headed Irishman, from a vagrant prize fighter almost overnight became one of America's most widely discussed authors and the most searching analyst of Hollywood.

Born in St. Mary's, Ohio, Tully spent much of his youth in an orphanage, growing up to learn and understand the people whom he later described in his "Beggars of Life." Living as a "hobo" for years he secured the first hand knowledge of the poverty classes which his books deal with. Rupert Hughes gave him his first encouragement in Hollywood, and his protégé proceeded to startle the literary world with his "Jarnegan," before turning to writing for the screen. "Circus Parade," "Beggars of Life," "Passing Strangers" and "Way of a Sailor" have placed him in the van of screen writers, and his colourful style have made Tully the highest paid interviewer of picture stars. He has also appeared as an actor in several plays, including his own "Way of a Sailor" with John Gilbert.

"Laughter in Hell" which tells the true story of the chain gang Hells, is based upon first hand information, and is said to be the most searchingly realistic thing Tully has ever done. Pat O'Brien, Merna Kennedy, Gloria Stuart, Tom Brown and Berton Churchill are featured in the powerful picture.

"BEST OF ENEMIES"

With Buddy Rogers & Marian Nixon

"Best of Enemies," Fox Film's new romantic comedy, comes to the King's Theatre, Sunday next. Buddy Rogers and Marian Nixon have the featured roles.

In theme and treatment, it is a film that has as timely a significance as any recently seen. Against a background that depicts the changes of time, the story details a romance between two youngsters whose personal lives are inextricably bound up with passing events. Their bringing up, their daily lives, being longed, as they do, to a familiar class of Americans, gives rise to a number of barriers that must be overcome. Buddy Rogers, absent from the motion picture screen for these many months, hereby, makes his return. With the training he has achieved in a year of personal appearances throughout the country, Rogers is said to have garnered enough experience to present himself as a new type of screen performer. Marian Nixon, in the leading feminine role, climaxes a year of important screen parts with this

AT THE QUEEN'S THEATRE

There is not a dull moment in "Made on Broadway" the film that combines drama and comedy. Robert Montgomery and Sally Eilers are co-starred in this very interesting picture. Robert Montgomery films the role of a young man about town, and is a super-fixer of political schemes with Miss Eilers as one of his synthetic creations brought to dazzling prominence from an obscure position as a waitress. The action is fast—from start to finish with a pleasant blending of comedy. There are many sparkling situations throughout the performance. Miss Eilers is said to outshine any previous role she has yet attempted, and Montgomery is always a favourite, so we will not go into any detail about this young man's capabilities. See it at the Queen's Theatre next Sunday.

AT THE CENTRAL THEATRE

"Happy Ever After"

Smile awhile
And while you smile
Another smiles
And soon there's miles
Of smiles
And life's worth while
Because you smile.

This is another Jack Hulbert and Cicely Courtneidge British Production with lovely Lillian Harvey, who is also very well-known to theatre fans, and Sonny Halo. It is the story of two men and a maid. Just what happens to this clever trio is left for you to see when this is flashed on the cinema screen at the Central Theatre. The picture abounds in catchy music and as good fun as Jack Hulbert's pictures always are. This is an Edith Pomeroy Production, directed by Paul Martin. It is to be shown at the Central Theatre, commencing on September 3.

"THE DEVIL IS DRIVING"

Capital Paramount Release

This is another "Paramount" release and judging from the cast promises us some really exciting episodes. Edmund Lowe, an old favourite on the screen heads the cast as Jimmy. Allan Dinehart know as Jenkins in this film is of the daredevil type offers Lowe a deal of support. Wynne Gibson who is steadily ascending to stardom is also mentioned in the cast. She is a night club entertainer who is Jenkins' sweetheart. She ends her affair with him however, and favours our Lowe. Jimmy is extremely fond of Beef's (Portrayed by James Gleason) little son who is crippled, the outcome of a motor accident. It is most exciting, there is plenty of action in the picture. It is to be shown on the

"PRIVATE LIVES"

FILM'S "GOOD GIRL" BECOMES "BAD"

Claudette Colbert had to go bad to go good.

Which is to say that to make good, the dark-eyed screen beauty decided she'd have to get herself a role as a bad girl, instead of continuing in sweet and wholesome characterizations.

Miss Colbert is starred with Frederic March, winner of the 1932 sward of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences for the best performance of the year, in "Tonight Is Ours," screen adaptation of a play by Noel Coward, who wrote the sensationally successful "Private Lives." The picture is now at the Queen's Theatre.

Miss Colbert, a French-born, American-raised star, went out to Hollywood a couple of years ago, after scoring a brilliant stage success. To her disgust, she was always cast in a more or less goody-goody role which, Claudette agreed, was all right once in a while, but to make a habit of them was another thing again.

She started a campaign to get out of the rut, and its results were successful. She won the role of Poppaen, super-wicked wife of Nero, in Cecil B. DeMille's spectacle of pagan Rome, "The Sign of the Cross." She was so sensationally bad that she was delighted, as were the critics.

"Tonight Is Ours" is her first role since "Sign of the Cross." Like other plays by Coward, it is a romantic, amusing story of clever people and their affairs. Miss Colbert is cast as a girl who has fled the responsibilities of her position and fallen in love with March, a wealthy young Parisian. In gay, charming fashion, they chase about the French capital, but their moments alone are moments of tender, if burning, passion. A strange trick of the fate almost upsets their lives, but a dramatic climax sets everything to rights.

55.—"Sick" Witnesses Found In Court Incident In A Libel Case

(Yesterday we gave the first portion of a report on a libel case by the Crown against Mr. Tarrant. The Acting Attorney General Mr. Green, appeared for the Crown, and the suspended Attorney General Mr. Anstey, appeared for Tarrant. Evidence was given to show that a number of Government officials required as witnesses could not attend, and medical certificates were put in by Dr. Chaldecott in respect of several of them. Mr. Anstey requested the Governor's presence in Court for several reasons and Mr. Green undertook to obtain from Sir John Bowring answers to the questions put by Mr. Anstey. The continuation of the report is given below.)

The acting Attorney General said that he would endeavour to obtain replies from H. E. but that the Governor declined to produce the letter of January 26 as it would betray official secrets.

Mr. Anstey said that reason would only apply to subordinates, but not to the Governor—that he (Mr. A.) knew to his cost and every man in the Colony knew that these secrets were the Governor's own—that to suit H.E.'s own views, portions of them were published, portions of them suppressed, and portions of them misconstrued, misinterpreted and garbled. That therefore the Colonial Secretary would not do for him as a substitute for the Governor (as had been requested) because that officer might avail himself of his bond of secrecy to the Governor, which H. E. himself could not. The learned Counsel therefore urged the Court to appoint Monday for the hearing of the case, suggesting that his client might be arraigned and the jury called, which being a special one (at the instance of the government) those gentlemen not called might be spared the trouble of coming again. The Chief Justice accordingly appointed Monday, but declined to appoint the jury.

The Chinese cases were then proceeded with, when a most extraordinary scene occurred. We thought from the merriment displayed by Sir John Bowring's son, that there was some "fun" going on, but we had no idea what it was. Mr. Anstey who had left returned after being absent a few minutes and proceeded to address the Court. He stated that he had to bring to the notice of his lordship an act involving a contempt of Court committed by two Government officials. He stated that he had been informed on the steps of the Court house, that Mr. Jose d'Almada, the Clerk of Councils, regarding whom a certificate of sickness had been handed in by Dr. Chaldecott, had actually been in the Court when such certificate had been read—Mr. Anstey was interrupted by a message from Mr. L. d'Almada to the effect that it was he and not his brother who was in Court. Mr. Anstey gave Mr. Gibb as his authority, who had stated that both brothers were in Court. Mr. L. d'Almada was then interrogated as to whether his brother had been in Court that day or not. He replied that he did not know. Mr. Mitchell, the Sheriff then rose and stated that both brothers had been in Court—and that the fact was notorious. The Chief Justice expressed strong disapproval of the proceeding and considered Dr. Chaldecott the most to blame. Mr. Anstey expressed a hope that the Court would not accept Dr. Chaldecott's certificate regarding any witness concerned in this case, adding that he should insist upon his being examined on oath as to the alleged sickness of any witnesses subpoenaed.

We greatly regret that a man so generally esteemed as Dr. Chaldecott should have mixed himself up in this matter. It looked blue enough before, and how the Government can expect a verdict from a jury who witnessed the trick, we cannot imagine.

FAN WORSHIP IN LONDON

Women Devotees Of Ramon Navarro

Last night, at the Palladium, I sat and watched the strangest show I have ever witnessed—over 3,000 people, five-sixths of them young women, in the grip of that curious frenzy known as "fan" worship writes a London dramatic critic.

For an hour the show proceeded as usual. Then there appeared a 34-year old olive-skinned man with wavy black hair, shining eyes, glistening white teeth revealed in a smile of singular charm and good nature; and it seemed that the house had gone mad.

Other artists had won applause. But this demonstration had a new, throbbing note, the shrill urgency of hysteria. Mr. Navarro bowed his thanks. The demonstration became louder, shriller.

He sang a little Spanish ballad, in a light but pleasing tenor, then another, and then something in English; and all the time the excitement kept mounting.

When he stepped on to the runway in front of the footlights I thought the mask excitement could rise no higher, but I was wrong. He came back, and the orchestra struck up the first strains of the familiar "Pagan Love Song," from one of his most successful talks—and like a flash there came a shout, an octave higher, full of sudden ecstasy such as I had never heard in a theatre.

No psychologist should miss Mr. Navarro's (or rather the crowd's) astonishing performance. Neither should any showman.

For just what is the secret of his appeal? His remarkable good looks? His sunny smile and unaffected charm? His voice—agreeable, but in no way remarkable? His clever acting and still cleverer showmanship? Or a little of each, plus the glamour cast around him like a back-projected halo by a score of romantic screen roles? I doubt if even his "fans" could say. I only know that all around me young women leant forward in their seats, smiling, sighing, laughing in unison at the young magician's will.

I found Mr. Navarro resting in a dressing room decorated with roses, while scores of women waited at the stage door hungry for a glimpse of him. A most likeable, unspooled young man, he was delighted, dazed, and worried by his London reception.

He told me of his experiences—of women who wait for hours and plunge madly at his car, only to be dragged back by policemen; of a 72-year-old woman who gave him an old silver goblet; of two girls who followed in a taxi all over Paris; of dancer at the Palladium (Mr. Reidy) who was mistaken for him and had his coat torn off.

"One girl," he continued, "dived half way through the window of my car outside the Palladium and was dropped back on the pavement. I'm afraid she was hurt. Other at one time or another bashed in my hat hit me over the head, pulled my finger painfully in different directions, snatched my muffler, my handkerchief, and most of the buttons off my overcoat.

"It was stated that on the first night a girl hurt her leg. Since then three mothers have claimed that their daughter was the girl, not to mention other girls who have written on their own account mentioning alleged damage.

"Paris was wonderful enough, but London! They say the English are cold but if this is any indication—"

He shook his head in wonder, while planning his nightly getaway. Five policemen were guarding the stage door, others—all paid for by the management—were stationed at every exit.

The entrance examination of Tsing Hua University, Peking, started on August 1 in Peking and Shanghai simultaneously. Over 1,700 candidates were registered at the Peking tests, it is reported, while about 900 men and women took part in the examinations here.

KUALA LUMPUR SCHOOL TO CLOSE

Parents Alarmed At Rumoured Official Plans

Kuala Lumpur, Aug. 22. Parents in Kuala Lumpur are much perturbed over a rumour that the Government has decided to close down the Maxwell Road school at the end of the year.

This is one of the three English elementary schools maintained by the Government in Kuala Lumpur and it has an enrolment of about 500 boys.

The staff comprises 17 teachers, including two Europeans.

It is understood that this is purely a retrenchment measure and that a saving of about $50,000 a year will be effected.

What will happen both to the boys and the teachers is a very open question.

There is one other elementary school in the same district, the Batu Road school, which has two empty rooms and may take in a number of the boys, while a few others may be accommodated at the Pasar Road school.

It seems probable, however, that about 450 boys ranging from seven to 14 years of age will have to seek education in mission or private schools.

As for the teachers, it is difficult to know what can become of them, as there are no vacancies in other schools. These teachers (who have not yet received notice) are all fully qualified.

It is said that a proposal has been made to offer the school building to the retrenched teachers free of rent to use for a private school, but no decision on this point has been made.

First Government English School

Maxwell Road School was the first English school to be conducted solely by Government in Kuala Lumpur and the second in Selangor.

Prior to 1919, when the Government school was opened at Kajang, English education in this State was solely in the hands of missionary bodies and private interests. The Victoria Institution, the largest school in Kuala Lumpur, was controlled at that time by a board of trustees.

PATRIOTISM IN AUSTRIA

An Offset To Hitlerism's Glare

Vienna—Austria, as a means of strengthening political barricades against Hitlerism from Germany is refurbishing national patriotism.

Old archives are being unlocked, old books reopened, old arms and shields readopted. Ministers and leading supporters of the Government declare that the Austrian nation is being "aroused from its internationalism" and its indifference to patriotism, and is showing a determination to defend itself from outside aggression.

Thus the Austrians are rediscovering a glorious past, picturing their nation as the bulwark of civilization, the outpost of culture, the original Germans, the home of Teutonic art, music and ideals.

"Austria has awakened!" declared Prince Sturzenberg, leader of Austria's Homeland Defense Force, in a patriotic speech delivered before a large meeting crowded into the "Concert Hall," one of the largest auditoriums in Vienna.

The occasion for this rather rude awakening is the noise made by bombs, by boisterous students, street conflicts, Hitlerist parades, and threats from Germany. It is Berlin that has aroused Austria. The thought of Germany swallowing Austria up, turning Vienna into a provincial town, and converting a millennial-old state into a "province" has prompted formation of a "fatherland front."

At the moment, Austria's indignation is turned against Berlin. The hostility of a century ago is being renewed and Vienna is once more preparing a defense against the Prussian capital.

Massolini and Italy are cheered. France and England are looked upon as saviors. A German invader is said to be at Austria's door, and non-Germans are asked to come to the rescue.

But these are only aspects of a tense struggle. At present Austria is awakening. Many of her people are opposed to Hitlerism. They would like very much to see the monarchy restored. This, on the whole, is a movement toward tolerance and peace and international cooperation. But some of the men leading the anti-Hitler crusade cherish many of Hitler's ideals.

The question is, Will what is good and beautiful in Austria survive this conflict between two almost fanatical forces, both of which reject popular government?

Street Sleepers In Hong Kong

ST. PETER'S CHURCH TO BE USED AS SHELTER

REV. N. V. HALWARD OUTLINES SCHEME

A very interesting address on an important aspect of community service in Hong Kong was given by Rev. N. V. Halward at the Rotary Club yesterday when he told Rotarians of the conditions of the street sleepers in Hong Kong and the work that is now being organised with a view to helping these destitutes.

Mr. Halward mentioned that recently a Street Sleepers Shelter Society had been formed and that this winter it was hoped to provide shelter in St. Peter's Church for the unfortunate people in our midst who have to sleep in the streets. He asked Rotarians for their support of the new society.

Mr. T. B. Wilson presided over the meeting.

APPEAL FOR PERSONAL SERVICE

The Rev. N. V. Halward said:—Mr. President and Members of the Rotary Club of Hong Kong: I first of all want to thank you most sincerely for your courtesy in giving me this opportunity of speaking to you about a form of Community Service which for some years past has been much on my mind and on the minds of many others as well.

I think that the best way for me to present the subject to you is first to give you a brief recapitulation of what so far as I have been able to ascertain, has been attempted in the past, and then to give you an idea of what it is hoped to do during the coming winter.

As far back as 1924 the problem of street sleepers was ventilated in the Press consequent on reports being received of several deaths from exposure. I believe I am right in saying that the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall together with Sir Shou-son Chou went into the matter very thoroughly but that subsequent events prevented any concrete action being taken.

In 1923 the question was again taken up by the St. Peter's Church Young Men's Club. One night a very thorough investigation of cases was made along Connaught Road and Des Voeux Road from the Post Office to St. Peter's Church, West Point. The street sleepers of all ages and both sexes were questioned and replies revealed that practically all were destitutes, many being opium addicts, and others were suffering from illness of one kind or another. Others had come to the Colony with the idea that work in abundance was to be obtained, but would welcome help to return to their families in the country. Those of us were responsible for the investigation very definitely felt that action of some sort or other should be taken to alleviate the distress which in so many cases was obviously genuine. In December 1928, the Police made a census and it was found that in all there were about 2,100 people sleeping in the streets.

Many difficulties presented themselves which I will not attempt to detail here. Suffice it to say that through the good offices of Mrs. Southern and the Hon. Dr. Kotewall the Committee of the Tung Wah Hospital were handed a sum of money to which they generously added a further sum from their funds and with this money a supply of blankets and coats were distributed to street sleepers. I understand that each winter since the Tung Wah Hospital has repeated the distribution.

Many of us feel, however, that such alleviation, good as it is, only a very temporary one, and we feel that the time has come that very definite steps should be taken to get down to the very heart of the problem.

The inspiration for the revived interest in the subject has come from Miss Mow Fung who called an informal meeting of those interested in providing shelter for Street Sleepers on July 10, of this year. The meeting decided to form the "Street Sleepers Shelter Society" and to invite various Churches and organisations to send two representatives each to a meeting which was held yesterday evening. Your club sent two who were present last night.

After the inaugural meeting in July the sanction of the necessary authorities has been given for the use of St. Peter's Church (now temporarily closed for worship) as a Shelter. At yesterday's meeting the following organisations were represented:—St. John's Cathedral, Union Church, St. Peter's Church, St. Andrew's Church, St. Stephen's Church, Y.M.C.A., Hong Kong University Graduates Association, Rotary Club, Po Leung Kuk, Y's Men's Club, Chinese Benevolent Association, Hong Kong Society for the Protection of Children, Chinese Y.M.C.A., The Tung Wah Hospital, the Chinese Chamber of Commerce and Trade, and others. They did not send anybody.

The meeting decided to form an Executive Committee whose functions were to decide upon general policy, to coordinate the work of various sub-committees, to arrange for the taking over of St. Peter's Church for the months of December, January, February and March, and to arrange for staffing and general management of the Shelter.

The following Sub-Committee were also formed: Finance, Construction, Publicity, Medical, Evangelistic and Women's Committee. Officials: The Bishop is being asked to be Patron.

Chairman of the Po Leung Kuk.

Rev. Halward before concluding his address invited members of the Rotary Club, who might wish to render some personal service to communicate with him, as there was sure to be room for anyone who might wish to serve on one or other of the several committees.

In proposing a vote of thanks to the speaker on behalf of the Rotary Club, Rev. W. Powell said that one interesting fact which Mr. Halward had kept back was the work he had himself done towards the proposed alleviation of the condition of street sleepers.

Mr. Halward was the Chairman of the Street Sleepers Shelter Society. It was good to see somebody in the Colony getting right down to our acute social problems. It was difficult in Hong Kong to get personal service, but he felt sure members of the Rotary Club would give the Street Sleepers Shelter Society their moral support. (Applause).

Mr. Cheung Yam Man, Chief Adviser of the Canton Army, 4th Division, arrived here on Saturday. It is reported that Mr. Cheung was instructed by General Lee Chung Hai to call on General Lee Chung Hai to discuss political affairs, and at the same time to enquire about General Lee's health. The latter is suffering from eye trouble.

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATES

$55,000 For Temporary Prison

At to-morrow's meeting of the Finance Committee of the Legislative Council supplementary estimates totalling $55,000 will be presented. Of this amount $55,000 is for temporary gaoi accommodation at Laichikok, sufficient to house 200 prisoners.

Full details of the items follows:—

New Territories, General Works $750

A full time Medical Officer is now stationed at On Long for duty in the New Territories and he needs a telephone.

Sanitary Department:—18, Head Stages $200

Expenditure on this sub-head has up to the present amounted to $2,137.42 out of a total vote of $2,200. This ordinarily would have met the whole year's requirements, which are ordered in advance and distributed to the cemeteries. More burials are now taking place in one of the cemeteries than before and it is necessary to order more stones for it.

The above is to be met from savings under Disinfecting and Cleansing Apparatus.

The Volunteer Camp.

Defence "A" Volunteer Defence Corps:—Special Expenditure. Improvements to Camps $500

It is considered desirable that further improvements should be carried out at the Volunteer Camp site near Fanling and in order to get full value it is proposed to have the work done before the 1933-1934 Camp Season opens. No provision has, however, been made in the current estimates and a supplementary vote for $500 is therefore requested.

St. Louis Industrial School. Charitable Services:—St. Louis Industrial School $8,000

The Salesian Fathers wish to rebuild and enlarge the St. Louis Industrial School at an estimated cost of $10,000 and Government with the approval of Finance Committee has agreed to contribute $8,000 which will be offset by a saving of $8,150 as a result of the Aberdeen Industrial Home not being ready this year.

Medical Department, Incidental Expenses $150

There has been a large increase in commercial and Government sampling, necessitating more travelling by the Sampler and cooler.

For the Police.

Police Force:—26, Rewards $1,000

The amount provided in Estimates has proved insufficient owing to an increase in the number of rewards paid for the arrest of returned banished. A supplementary vote for $1,000 is requested.

Interpretation Fees $300

The deficiency is due to an increase in the number of interpreters required for cases where Police Interpreters were not available (Japanese and Portuguese).

A Temporary Prison.

Public Works Extraordinary:—New Kowloon Buildings, Temporary Building at Laichikok Prison $55,000

In connection with the overflow of prisoners at Victoria Gaoi it is proposed to erect at Lai Chi Kok a temporary building, similar to those already there, at an estimated inclusive cost of $55,000, with accommodation for 200 prisoners.

$55,000

FARMER MURDERED

In Village On Lantau Island

Tai O, in Lantau Island, was the scene of a brutal murder, in connection with which two Chinese are being sought by the Police.

The victim, Wan Kai, a farmer, was eating his evening meal outside his hut with his wife, when two men approached, accompanied by a woman.

Shouting "strike him" they rushed at the farmer with their fists. One of them picked up a heavy pole and struck the farmer knocking him backwards over an embankment, and causing injuries from which he died.

The assailants and the woman who was with them escaped.

NO PARKING!

In Wellington Street

Wellington Street is to be added to the long list of streets where a "No Parking" sign is placed in a prominent position—a standing mockery to motorists, especially owner-drivers, who have a lot of trouble to find a suitable place for the "old bus" during office hours. As a result of complaints received, the Traffic Department are taking vigorous action against the offending motorists, and yesterday, Mr. C. G. Scialuna, of Savarin House, was summoned before Mr. Schofield for causing an obstruction in Wellington Street and for having used an unlicensed car.

Defendant said that he went to the Central Station on August 1 to licence the car, but had to leave as there were so many people awaiting attention. He was about to get his licence on August 4, when he was summoned.

Mr. Schofield—You are over a month late. They re-licence cars on July 1.

Traffic Sergeant McInnis said the summons were taken out as a result of complaints. The cars were left on the incline, and children often meddled with them. Some time ago a coolie had been jammed against the wall as the result of one of the cars moving down the incline, as it had not been properly braked.

Mr. Schofield—They should never be allowed to park cars there at all.

Defendant was fined $7 and $10.

$20 Fee.

Mr. B. A. Proulx, was fined $7 for having caused obstruction in Wellington Street on August 4.

Mr. A. R. Wong, 109, Leighton Hill Road, was also fined $7 for obstruction in the same street, and $10 for having an unlicensed car.

Mr. S. D. Fong was fined $3 for obstruction in Wellington Street, Mr. Schofield remarking that as it was his first offence he would lessen the fine.

Mr. G. Young, 79 Wong Nei Chung Road, was fined $13 for having driven his car in Wyndham Street without permission from the I. G. P.

For having left his car unattended in On Lan Street, Mr. Lo Wing-han, 68, Village Road, was fined $5.

Traffic Inspector Alexander said that the I. G. P. would not allow cars to be parked there. Only a few owners, about four or five, had been given permission on payment of $20 a year.

THREATS AND ABUSE

Quarrel In Shop Over A Young Woman

Charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones yesterday with using threatening and abusive language towards Wong Lau Hok, the managing director of the Wing Wo shop, 39, Tung Nam Street, a Chinese named Yu Cheong was bound over for 12 months in the sum of $100 to come up for judgment if called upon.

When the case opened, Mr. F. K. D'Almada, Jnr., told the Magistrate that he had had leave from the Inspector General of Police to conduct the prosecution. He then went on to say that the defendant was unemployed and often visited a fook in the Wing Wo shop, on several occasions staying the night there. When the complainant heard about this, he objected and asked the man to leave.

Continuing, Mr. D'Almada said that the defendant went back to the shop on August 15, accompanied by a woman. He (defendant) was very objectionable and accused the complainant of having "taken a room" in a boarding-house with the woman. He was asked to leave which he did, but on August 24, he came back again, and this time he was alleged to have asked the complainant whether he preferred to be shot or done in with a revolver.

This time, continued Mr. D'Almada, the complainant asked one of his fooks to blow the police whistle and when this was done the defendant took to his heels. The fook in the shop gave chase and the defendant was arrested in Wellington Street and taken to the Police Station.

Mr. D'Almada's opening was corroborated in evidence by the complainant and the accountant of the shop.

In the witness-box the defendant, said he never made any threats against the complainant and that he had been wrongly accused.

Mr. Wynne-Jones: Who is this woman in question?

Witness: She loves me and I love her.

When asked if he had anything further to say, the defendant remarked that the accountant was complainant's brother and would

PUISNE JUDGE ON BISIS

Methods Of Running "A Disgrace"

"It is a disgrace, the way these bisis were run," observed Mr. Justice Lindsell yesterday when hearing details of one of the Indian money loan associations from a witness called on behalf of a plaintiff named Bensiram who claimed $175 from Bishen Singh, Banta Singh and Kapur Singh or 8 Anton Street.

The claim was for instalments due to the plaintiff at the rate of $25 per month by the defendants for seven months from January to July, 1933, under a promissory note dated October 16, 1932 given by the defendants in favour of the plaintiff.

Mr. A. el Arculli appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. F. C. E. Rendall was for the defendants.

The defence was to the effect that the bisi in question, being an association of over 30 members, was an illegal association.

The case for the plaintiff was that there was no association at all and that the members had their transactions with the "head" to whom they looked for payment and with whom they dealt.

After hearing the evidence of witnesses for both sides, and an independent witness called at the instance of the Puisse Judge, the proceedings were adjourned until Friday, September 8, when the books of the bisi in question will be produced.

CHINESE BATHING CLUBS

Colonial Secretary's Reply To Petition

The following letter has been sent by the Colonial Secretary to the representatives of the Chinese bathing pavilions at North Point. "Sir,—With reference to your letter of July 10, enclosing a petition on the subject of bathing pavilions at North Point, I am directed to inform you that Government is prepared to permit the Clubs to continue on the present yearly tenures, but I am to warn you that the shipping and industrial development of the Colony must have first claim on the area in question. The Clubs would therefore be well advised to consider the possibility of other sites.

I am, Sir, Your obedient servant, A. W. G. H. GRANTHAM, For the Colonial Secretary.

HONG KONG, AUGUST 30, 1933.

THE SOUTH CHINA COALITION

While the year is too far advanced for there to be much danger of actual hostilities between Nanking and Canton, there is no sign of reconciliation between the two factions. The All China National Salvation Association of Shanghai has sent a circular telegram to the South-West Political Council recapitulating the sins of commission and omission of the Nanking Government and urging (a) that the Fifth National Congress of the Kuomintang be held at Canton, and (b) that Canton undertake the recovery of the lost provinces.

While the Canton press and politicians have been active in denouncing the Nanking Government and supporting General Feng Yu Hsiang with stirring telegrams and messages of encouragement they have not been able to send him much material support, beyond the money obtained by public subscription. This is not surprising for the Canton Government has had its hands full for the past two years. Both Nanking and Canton troops have been engaged upon the anti-Communist campaign, for neither side wishes the other to reap the credit for putting down the Reds, and, incidentally, to occupy the immense and wealthy areas now controlled by this movement. Kiangsi, where the Reds have their main strength, stretches up to the Yangtze, and borders closely upon the key position of Hankow. While both sides are seeking to exterminate the movement, from all reports the Cantonese troops are far more active and well disciplined than Chiang Kai Shek's forces. The Nineteenth Army adds to its laurels but complaints are common that Nanking and other troops from North China provinces behave no better, and sometimes worse than the Reds.

Though the Reds are still strong in Fukien, Kwelin and around Swatow the Kwangtung, Kwangsi and Yunnan Governments have the situation fairly well in hand. The South-West Provinces are beginning to discover that the fruits of peace are more certain and probably more profitable than anything that can be gained by war against a determined antagonist. Kwangsi and Yunnan have done particularly well during the past three or four years and their respective governments will think twice before embarking on any civil quarrel.

The political reaction to a peace policy, apart from the anti-Red campaign, is likely to be at first a steady widening of the gulf between South and North. Each will go its own way, though sooner or later the question of reunion will have to be settled, either by war or in the council chamber. China has a natural power of coalescence which defies the forces of disruption.

A lifting up of the provinces into nations has seemed imminent often enough in the past, but at the present time the solid union of the South is the true reflection of the national instinct. Possibly with the passing of certain personalities from the political stage the Kuomintang will once more bring the antagonistic sections together, nor can the possibility be eliminated of some form of the communist movement—which is at present mainly an expropriation of the landlords—may supersede the Kuomintang. Every Chinese patriot, and every well wisher of the country will, however, hope that people and leaders alike are learning that strength and prosperity are built up in time of peace. Sometimes a foreign war may bring gain, but civil war is a dead loss to all.

OBITUARY

Mr. Silas Simon Levy

Shanghai, Aug. 24. The Jewish community of Shanghai has suffered a great loss in the death of Mr. Silas Simon Levy, which took place last Tuesday, after a lingering illness.

The deceased was 73 years of age, an old resident of China and well-known throughout the East. He was born in Baghdad and left for India at an early age for his education. From his early boyhood he showed an aptitude for literature and studied deeply Jewish and non-Jewish mysticism. He contributed numerous articles to the press and lectured often on themes in which he showed wonderful aptitude. Of lovable disposition he was always sought for and the hours pleasantly spent. He had a pride of his race, national Judaism and service Jews have rendered to civilisation. He was besides a thorough Arabic scholar, having made a special study of the Koran in the original and was recognised as an authority on the subject.

He lived many years in Java, Straits Settlements, Hong Kong and later in Shanghai. In Hong Kong he was in the firm of Messrs. E. D. Sassoon and Co. retiring ten years ago. He was an active communal worker having been Hon. Secretary of the Ohel Leah Synagogue and the Jewish Benevolent Society. He was a kind man filled with devotion for suffering humanity and the oppressed in life.

The funeral service in the Jewish cemetery was conducted by Hazan Eliahu Isaac. Rabbi Brown delivered a moving address eulogising the deceased for his manifold virtues.

The late Mr. Levy is survived by his widow, five daughters and two sons, Messrs. S. E. Levy and D. E. Levy for whom deep sympathy is felt in their bereavement.

THE LUTINE'S GOLD CARGO

Salvage Apparatus Destroyed

Terschelling, Aug. 29.

Misfortune has again dogged the attempts to salvage the gold cargo of the famous frigate, Lutine.

The enormous tower, with suction pipes and engines, erected as part of the salvage apparatus has been destroyed under mysterious circumstances by an explosion of dynamite. The outrage being attributed to malicious intent.

The Lutine sank in 1799 off the coast of Holland, while carrying a cargo of gold and silver worth two millions sterling from England to Germany.

Her bell was recovered in 1869 and is known as the famous Lutine bell of Lloyds.

The engineer in charge declares he will construct a new tower and restart salvage operations next spring.—Reuter.

GIRL SWIMS CHANNEL

London, Aug. 29.

MISS Sonny Lowry, a Manchester girl aged twenty-two, swam the Channel from Cape Grimes to South Foreland in fifteen and three-quarter hours. She is the first to swim the Channel since 1930.

As Miss Lowry was finishing, Miss Mercedes Gletze, E. H. Temme and Charles Zibelman, the legless American, started from Dover competing for the Dover Challenge Cup for the fastest swim from Dover to France this year.

VIOLATION OF SWISS FRONTIER

Strong Protest Sent To League

Basle, Aug. 28.

THE Swiss Government has lodged a formal protest in Berlin against the repeated violation of the Swiss frontier by German agents, apparently over-zealous Nazi leaders.

A storm of indignation is sweeping through Switzerland as a result of the incursions into Swiss territory.

The latest incident concerns a Czechoslovakian. It is fairly well known that he has been smuggling sugar into Germany, but the fact remains that he was in Swiss territory, near the border, when three Germans crossed, seized him and dragged him into German territory.

A Swiss Customs officer who witnessed the incident attempted to rescue the victim, but single-handed he was outwitted in the struggle.—Reuter.

VISCOUNT GREY VERY ILL

Condition Stated To Be Serious

London, Aug. 29.

VISCOUNT Grey, who has been suffering from eye trouble for some time, recently visited a specialist in London and is now lying very ill at his home at Falden.

It is stated his condition is serious.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

The Victoria Recreation Club announces that two open championships of the Colony will take place at this night fete on September 2.

On the return of the s.s. Tung On from Canton on Monday, Capt. Muir reported to the Police that a Chinese committed suicide by throwing himself overboard.

Mrs. Borrett, wife of the General Officer Commanding, accompanied by Capt. Mears, A.D.C., visited the European Y.M.C.A. at Kowloon yesterday morning.

The noise of wood being broken attracted an Indian police constable to the hillside above Tregunter Path. He arrested a Chinese who carried a bundle of wood. Charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones yesterday, the man was fined ten dollars or fourteen days' gaol.

Mak Chau, 14, a member of the Street Boys' Club was brought before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court yesterday charged with causing an obstruction with baskets of fruit in Ramsey Street. "You're a very naughty boy" remarked the magistrate in ordering four strokes of the cane.

After spending nearly three years in gaol since 1929, Ng Chau was charged before Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday with obtaining an electric fan from No. 12 Kwong Wah Street on August 21 by false pretences. Sentence of six months' hard labour with two years' Police supervision to follow.

A plea of not guilty was made by a Chinese woman when she appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court yesterday, charged with keeping a brothel at 1, Pak Chi Lane, first floor. After evidence was taken, His Worship cautioned the defendant, and made an order for closure of the premises.

CHINESE CHARLES GARVICE

Serious Allegations Against Dr. Chang

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Aug. 29.

Dr. Chang Ching Sheng, the Chinese "Charles Garvice," will be sent to Canton for trial for alleged corruption while in office as industrial commissioner of Yew Ping County, near Swatow. Ten charges are preferred against Dr. Chang, who became famous for rather notorious overnight by writing a book on sexual relationship.

This Chinese writer is accused of usurping private farms for his personal benefit. Such maladministration has drawn the attention of the Provincial Department of Interior, which orders the prompt extradition of Dr. Chang for trial in Canton.

Officials here believe that an alleged notorious character like Chang should be gaoled. His novel is banned here, although nearly every young man or woman who can read has gone over the contents of this book, which is particularly popular among girl students.

An independent report states that Dr. Chang has so far evaded arrest.

CHINA'S NATIVE GOODS

Exhibition To Be Held At Wai Chow

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Aug. 29.

Set in beautiful surroundings, Chinese native goods will make a lasting and favourable impression on the general public. This is the opinion of the Provincial Department of Reconstruction which is busy preparing to open a native Goods Bazaar on October 10 at the public garden facing the West Lake, Wai Chow.

Money for this fair will be raised by the Provincial Department of Finance, while the Municipal Bureau of Social Affairs is requesting the merchants to supply the exhibits. Even foreign firms and Chinese shops selling foreign goods are invited to send their wares for display at the exhibition.

Merchants and shops anywhere in this province are welcomed to send in their commodities, and the object is of course to boost Chinese-made goods.

TO STRENGTHEN THE LAW

Bill Against Black-mailing

Simla, Aug. 29.

A Bill designed particularly to strengthen the law dealing with libellous and blackmailing press attacks against ruling Indian Princes was introduced in the Legislature today to protect Indian States from activities tending to subvert their subjects or excite disaffection.—Reuter.

NEW CODE OF SIGNALS

To Operate From January 1 Next

London, Aug. 28.

THE Board of Trade announce that the new international code of signals, notified last year, will come into international use on January 1, 1934.

The British French, German and Norwegian editions of the code have already been published, while of the remaining, editorial editions by Japan, Spain and the United States are expected before the end of the year. The British edition consists of two volumes, the first dealing with the visual and sound signalling, and the second with Radio signalling. The latter provides for the first time an official international wireless telegraphy code issued specially for the use of merchant shipping and air services.

The Medical section embodies a complete case-stating system and list of standard quarantine messages. The Board expresses the hope that all ships' Masters and Officers will familiarise themselves with the new international code before its introduction.—British Wireless.

BERBER SHEIK SURRENDERS

Pacification Completed In Morocco

Rabat, Morocco, Aug. 29.

REDUCED to a choice of dying of thirst in his Great Atlas stronghold or surrendering with his weakened forces, Sheik Ouskouti, the last die-hard Berber chieftain, has surrendered to the French.

This action completes the pacification of French Morocco, with the exception of the Atlas region in the extreme South.—Reuter.

ANOTHER NORMAN MYSTERY!

WILL DOLLAR AND STERLING BE STABILISED?

"TEA-PARTY" TALKS MAY INFLUENCE MR. ROOSEVELT

New York, August 29.

The object of Mr. Montagu Norman's visit continues to evoke lively speculation, while it is dismissed in some quarters as just another mystery of Mr. Montagu Norman.

Banking circles stress that Mr. Norman's visit is not purely social as he is believed to be convinced that sterling-dollar stabilisation is essential to world recovery.

While official circles emphasise the tea-party talks do not imply any immediate change in the American financial policy, Mr. Norman's visit will possibly influence Mr. Roosevelt's future policy. Mr. Roosevelt is not likely to commit himself to any fresh monetary policy until the results of the Recovery Campaign are available. But it is believed Mr. Norman will urge a measure for the temporary stabilisation of exchanges to help rather than hinder the recovery movement in the United States.

WALL STREET TAKES NO NOTICE

New York, Aug. 28.

WALL STREET appears to be taking little if any interest in the meeting between President Roosevelt, Mr. Montagu Norman (of the Bank of England) and Mr. Harrison (Governor of the Federal Reserve Board).

It is believed that the subject under discussion concerns the monetary policies of the United States and Great Britain, with a view to an adjustment to a common policy.

Important decisions may possibly be reached, but so little is known about the progress of the talks or their nature that it was not surprising to find that there was no reaction on the foreign exchange market, which showed little activity.—Reuter.

MERELY A SOCIAL GATHERING

Hyde Park, New York, Aug. 29. No business was transacted, it was merely a social gathering, announced President Roosevelt, after his meeting with the Governor of the Bank of England, Mr. Montagu Norman and Mr.

Harrison following a tea attended by others unconnected with official life.

Previously, Mr. Norman was a guest at luncheon of the Federal Reserve Board. The function was attended by Mr. Harrison, Mr. Eugene Black, governor of the Board, and prominent bankers.—Reuter.

GOLD PRICES FALL

London, Aug. 28.

To-day's fall of 7½ in the price of gold caused some profit taking but not enough to withstand the demand for gold shares and substantial advance were made.

Kaffirs were mainly affected but West African Indians and West Australians all went up.

Johannesburg telegrams, report excited dealings upon which to-day's drop in the gold price had only a slight effect. The other main feature on the London Stock markets to-day was the continuance of the steady rise in Home rails. British funds were inactive. War Loan 3½ per cent being quoted at 99½.—British Wireless.

REDUCTION IN WHEAT ACREAGE

15 Per Cent Announced In America

Washington, Aug. 28.

MR. WALLACE, the Secretary of the Department of Agriculture, has formally announced that a fifteen per cent reduction in American wheat acreage will be undertaken during the coming season.—Reuter.

Washington, Aug. 28. Mr. Wallace has estimated that the wheat acreage reduction will reduce planting by 9,600,000 acres and production by 124,000,000 bushels.

He added that the American supplement to the London Wheat agreement was expected to be signed to-day.

Details are at present not divulged.—Reuter.

ANGLO-SOVIET TRADE

Interim Arrangement By U.S.S.R.

London, Aug. 28.

THE Foreign Office has been informed by the Soviet Embassy in London that for the purpose of facilitating commercial operations in the United Kingdom, pending the conclusion of the new trade agreement, the Government of the U.S.S.R. have authorised M. Alexandre Osersky, in virtue of his position as trade representative of the U.S.S.R. in Great Britain to sign letters of guarantee.

He is authorised to enter into all commercial transactions on their behalf and, accordingly, the Government of the U.S.S.R. will accept full responsibility for all obligations entered into by M. Osersky acting for and on behalf of that Government.—British Wireless.

U.S. RECOVERY PLAN

Roosevelt Confers With Ickes

New York, Aug. 28.

METHODS of speeding up the Recovery Plan were discussed at Hyde Park to-day, in conversations between President Roosevelt and Mr. Ickes, the Secretary for the Interior.

After the conference, Mr. Ickes declared himself in favour of the withdrawal of allotments from the Recovery Fund in cases where the projects were not started within a specified period.—Reuter.

U.S. FOOD PRICES RISE

Eighteen Per Cent. Since April

Washington, Aug. 28.

THE Labour Department has issued a statement containing a survey of retail food prices in the United States.

The statistics show that groceries in America to-day cost approximately eighteen per cent more than they did in April, which was the year's lowest level.—Reuter.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS SUSPENDED

New York, Aug. 28.

New York State to-day suspended the anti-trust laws in order to permit the full operation of the National Recovery Act within the State's borders.

The step has been contemplated for some little time.—Reuter.

WAR MENACE IN PACIFIC

Strong Warning From New Zealand

Banff, Aug. 28.

THE war menace in the Pacific occupied the thought of most of the delegates at the concluding session of the conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations to-day.

A very strong warning was, for instance, delivered by the New Zealand Finance Minister, Mr. Downie-Stewart, who in a striking speech, declared his conviction that unless immediate steps were taken to create a peace machinery, there was grave danger of war.

Tentative plans for the formation of a Pacific Socialist organization, sponsored by Lord Snell, the well-known British Labour Peer, were submitted to the Conference with the object of furthering the movement for a League of Pacific Nations in order to ensure peace and to solve mutual economic problems.

Beneficial And Amicable. No resolutions were passed by the Conference, but the heads of the various delegations announced that the meetings had proved most illuminating, beneficial and amicable, despite the controversial aspect of many of the questions which were discussed.—Reuter.

SECRET TALKS AT BANFF

Banff, Aug. 28.

Secret and unofficial negotiations, looking to a settlement of two outstanding questions between the Orient and the West, were undertaken by delegates to the Institute of Pacific Relations to-day.

Despite the unofficial nature of the conversations, it is the understanding here that the Far Eastern delegates, at least, expected them to result in official action.

The conversations were surrounded with all of the secrecy and importance that usually attends a diplomatic conference when the delegates retired to consider the repeal of the American and Canadian Oriental exclusion laws and the Japanese proposals to be made at the Simla conference.

Some of the Far Eastern representatives admitted that preliminary ground may be covered in the unofficial negotiations.

Both Japanese and Chinese delegates met with those from Canada and the United States. Before the doors were closed, a Japanese spokesman said that the Americans and Canadians would be asked to use their influence at Washington and Ottawa to give both China and Japan immigration quotas and do away with exclusion which has been responsible for much of the confusion and misunderstanding between the East and West. He said that Canada and the United States could adopt any method of arriving at a quota that seemed desirable.

It was indicated that both China and Japan would not insist on a quota based on the 1890 Oriental population of the United States. The Americans, however, said that, if a quota should be granted, it would have to be on the same basis as others are granted.

ANGLO-JAPANESE TRADE

Meanwhile, Japanese delegates were closeted with delegates from Great Britain and plainly attempting to sound British opinion with regard to the Japanese proposals to be made at Simla. It was evident that the Japanese expected the British delegates to cable their views to London and thus smooth the path of the Simla conference in advance.

Japan, it was said here, will offer to buy her raw cotton in India instead of the United States if a substantial quantity of Japanese textiles are allowed to enter India at reasonably low tariffs.

The Japanese have already admitted that Great Britain and India are not likely to accept the proposal immediately. In fact, one of the disturbing factors, both here and in Tokyo, is that Great Britain has given no indication of her attitude, either directly or indirectly. The Japanese Foreign Office has, from time to time, announced her desires with regard to the Indian market but it appears that any announcement of attitude must await the convening of the Simla meeting.

Although there is now considerable agitation in favour of repealing the exclusion laws in Canada and the United States, executive officials in both countries have remained silent on the question.—United Press.

Mr. Douglas Wong, 14, Dragon Terrace was the complainant before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court yesterday, in a case in which an unemployed Chinese, aged 28, was charged with stealing a radiator cap from an Opel car, parked in Jervois Street. Detective-Sergeant Fowle said the thief was arrested in Queen's Road West with the article in his possession. He told the Police where the car was parked. Sentence of six weeks was passed.

YELLOW RIVER FLOODS

Kaocheng Practically Destroyed

Peiping, Aug. 28.

Reports on the Yellow River flood situation in Honan have begun to come in from the investigators sent out by the Chinese International Famine Relief Commission.

Bishop W. C. White, wiring from Kaifeng to-day, says that investigations at Kaocheng reveal the city as being almost entirely destroyed. He adds that the city offices have been moved elsewhere.

The telegram goes on to say that over a hundred villages have been destroyed and a considerable tract of land covered with silt to a depth of several feet. The water has mostly receded, but several thousand people are in dire need.

A PHENOMENAL RISE

Nanking, Aug. 28.

While Shantung messages continue to report a fall in the Yellow River level at Lokow, reports from Kansu are far from assuring.

According to Chu Shao Liang, Chairman of the Kansu Government, heavy rainfall occurred in Kansu on August 16th. On this day the heaviest downpour for the past six months was recorded, resulting in the Yellow River registering the phenomenal rise of 400 feet in the gorge.

Chu Shao Liang promises to continue to report on the latest situation in the upper reaches of the River.—Reuter.

A DENIAL

Nanking, Aug. 28.

Liu Shih, Governor of Honan, has telegraphed to Nanking, emphatically denying that the Honan authorities opened the Yellow River dykes near Lanfang, for the purpose of diverting the flood waters into the lower river districts, thus causing the inundation of eighteen hsien in West Shantung.

The Executive Yuan has decided to form a Yellow River Flood Relief Commission to carry out three stages of relief, the immediate assistance of flood sufferers, relief by means of employment and lasting conservancy projects.—Reuter.

MR. EUGENE CHEN

Not To Resign From Politics

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Aug. 28.

The Hon. Mr. Eugene Chen, member of the South-West Political Council, received this afternoon Monsieur M. H. Donnafous, French Consul General at Shanghai, who called at the office of the Inspector General of Foreign Affairs.

Mr. Chen returned to Canton from Hong Kong last evening by train.

It was authoritatively learned this afternoon that Mr. Chen's contemplated resignation as reported by the vernacular Press in Hong Kong is absolutely without foundation.

THE FALL OF YENPING

Communists Defeat Government Troops

Peiping, Aug. 29.

GOVERNMENT reinforcements for Yenping were apparently too late. Foreign despatches from Foochow, state that Yenping fell into Communist hands yesterday.

Government troops are being now sent from Kienningfu. All American residents at Yenping had safely withdrawn before the city fell.

JAPANESE CRUISER SENT TO MAWEI

Tokyo, Aug. 29.

THE Navy Office has announced the despatch of the cruiser Isuzu are two destroyers to Mawei, near Fuchow, owing to the near approach of Communist troops causing unrest.

WATCHING JAPAN'S INTERESTS

Cruiser Proceeds To Foochow. The entry of the Communist forces into north-west Fukien has caused the Japanese cruiser, Isuzu, which was to have arrived here on an informal visit yesterday, to postpone her call. She has been directed to proceed to Foochow to watch Japanese interests there.

Rear-Admiral Yamanouchi is on board the cruiser but he is only travelling as a passenger. We understand that the reason for this was that it was not intended that the Admiral should exchange formal calls with the Hong Kong Government.

In the event of the trouble in Fukien not proving serious, the Isuzu will return from Foochow to Makong. The Communist advance is causing much concern, and the United States authorities have advised all American subjects in the area to withdraw to the coast.

FENG'S LATEST WISH

Anxious To Serve Central Govt.

Peiping, Aug. 28.

THE orders from General Ho Ying Ching to General Sung Chen Yuan, that General Fang Chen Wu and his men must be rounded up and disarmed, indicates that the authorities refuse to further negotiate with this ex-Kuomintang general.

It is reported General Feng is now again asking for an appointment before giving up his present command but, in view of his recent record, the authorities have decided this is impossible and that he must give up his command first, or have his men rounded up and disarmed.

General Sung is taking measures, according to Chinese sources, to prevent General Fang and his troops from joining up with General Liu Kwei Tang.—Reuter.

MORE FIGHTING IN CHARHAR

Manchukuo Forces Claim Success

Tokyo, Aug. 29.

A MESSAGE from Changchun states that Japanese head quarters has announced that a Manchukuo expedition, in which General Tang Yu Lin, ex-Governor of Jehol is participating, has successfully completed the expulsion from Eastern Chahar of elements alleged to have been menacing the Western border of Jehol.

The expedition, which presumably contained a small body of Japanese troops to stiffen the Manchukuo forces, occupied Ku-yuan, south-west of Dolonor, on August 25. Heavy fighting took place with the enemy, who were largely composed of ex-followers of General Feng Yu Hsiang. The opposing forces, estimated at 5,000 men, fled before the Manchukuo advance, leaving sixty dead.—Reuter.

NEW GOVERNOR OF CHARHAR

Nanking, Aug. 29.

The Executive Yuan has formally confirmed the appointment of General Sung Chen Yuan as Governor of Charhar.—Reuter.

T. V. SOONG RETURNS TO SHANGHAI

NANTAO BUND UNDER HEAVY MILITARY GUARD

INTERESTING STATEMENT BY CHINA'S FINANCIAL MINISTER

Shanghai, August 29.

Mr. T. V. Soong landed at the Nantao Bund at 9.20 this morning under heavy military and police protection. Five planes hovered above the Bund, while all traffic in the vicinity of the wharf was suspended when Mr. Soong's party landed to the strains of a brass band.

RUMOURS OF ASSASSINATION PLOTS

Nobody was allowed to meet the Finance Minister on board the President Jefferson, even Government leaders and those armed with special permits being refused permission to board the vessel, which was heavily guarded by police, in view of rumours of assassination plots.

The streets leading from the Nantao wharf to Mr. Soong's residence in Frenchtown were strongly picketed by police, and traffic was suspended when his car was passing. French police guarded the Minister the whole way from the wharf to his residence.

Those welcoming Mr. Soong included Mr. Cheng Chung Min and Dr. H. H. Kung, representing Mr. Wang Ching-wei, and General Chiang Kai Shek, respectively. The whole party proceeded to Mr. Soong's residence.—Reuter.

AN APPEAL FOR UNITY

Shanghai, August 29.

Mr. T. V. Soong issued a written statement this morning appealing for unity among the national leaders and expressing confidence that, if China helps herself, all powers in the world would gladly extend assistance to China.

Mr. Soong first dwelt at length with his travels in America, and Europe and with his meetings with President Roosevelt and the leaders of European powers and also with his participation in the World Economic Conference.

Continuing he said that the American cotton and wheat loan was concluded for the reconstruction of China and expressed his deep appreciation of the powers' spirit of co-operation with China, demonstrated during his trip abroad.

He said he inspected the new industrial tendencies in Germany, Italy and France, which were all good examples for China. He referred to the Yellow River flood in China and expressed very deep sorrow for the refugees.

Adding that all the powers were making long strides in economic and cultural developments and national defence, while China continues in the grip of natural catastrophes and social disorders, "It is time for China to develop herself. But in order to make such a development possible, all leaders in China must co-operate closely and concentrate on national resources and the capital genius in the Government for national reconstruction with the same spirit as possessed by the other powers," said Mr. Soong.—Reuter.

NO LOAN FROM GREAT BRITAIN

Shanghai, August 29.

Interviewed by Reuter this afternoon, Mr. T. V. Soong denied the current rumours that he has negotiated a loan with Great Britain.

He said that part of the American cotton, purchased from the United States loan to China, is already en route to China, but as the price of American wheat has not yet been fixed, no wheat has been despatched.

How the American loan will be used has not yet been decided, though it will be utilised for constructive purposes.

Mr. Soong reviewed at great length the situation abroad, and concluded by saying he was deeply impressed by the Powers' warlike preparations. He paid a high tribute to the Fascist and Nazi organisations in Europe, saying they resulted in close co-operation among the people.

Mr. Soong added that all the Powers hope for an early settlement of the Communist menace to China, since all were anxious to invest in this country.

The Finance Minister refused to express an opinion on Sino-Japanese relations and other political issues.

Mr. Soong is proceeding to Nanking before the week-end.—Reuter.

TO MEET CHIANG

Shanghai, August 29.

It is understood that Mr. T. V. Soong will be leaving for Kuling shortly for a meeting with Chiang Kai Shek.

Messrs. Sun Fo and Wang Ching-wei are also going to Kuling soon for another conference.—Reuter.

FIFTH NATIONAL CONGRESS

Chen Opposed To Canton As Centre

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Aug. 29.

While Kuomintang leaders such as Hsiao Fu Chen, Chow Lu, Teng Tse Ju, and Li Chung Jen are still in Hong Kong, they are said to be making a final effort to convene a Kuomintang Fifth National Congress in Canton as a challenge to another Congress to be held in Nanking on November 12.

Though General Chen Tsai Tong, Commander-in-Chief of the Kwangtung land, sea and air forces is not enthusiastic about having a Congress convened in his territory, he seems willing to consider a compromise scheme. Therefore there is talk of calling the Congress not in Canton but in Shanghai, Foochow or Wuchow.

There have been considerable rumours here following the refusal of the Kuomintang leaders to return to Canton. It was reported from a reliable source that they have everything to lose and nothing to gain by the Nanking Congress, which, it is alleged, will meet to enhance the military and political power of General Chiang Kai Shek, Chairman of the Nanking Military Council.

The South-west Political Council held its regular meeting this morning, but as many members of the standing committee are away, no business was transacted apart from approving several minor routine matters by General Chen Tsai Tong.

Important political developments are expected in the next few days, though everything seems rather obscure and uncertain at the moment.

LAWN BOWLS

The results of the week-end lawn bowls matches have definitely put Craighower Cricket Club out of running for honours in the first division. According to one player in that Club, no one is dissatisfied with the defeat this season, as they have not been playing like a Champion Club. The Civil Service will meet the Bowling Green this week-end and in view of the practice which the former have put in lately, there is no telling which way the game will end. If the Civil Service can win the league this year, they will be lucky, as they were almost out of running early on, and only repeated defeats of Craighower and the Bowling Green gave them a look in towards the end of the season.

INTERNATIONAL FINAL

What a dazzling display of bowling was seen at the final of the International Lawn Bowls match on Sunday. The two rinks showed a high standard throughout and but for the five and six scored in successive heads by Scotland, a close game would have been seen. Mair, the Police star player was in remarkable form and it was thanks to him mainly that Scotland won as handsomely as they did. For Mair seemed to be inspired with uncanny accuracy all through. Bradbury played a good game for the losers and Chalmers, who was No. 2 for Scotland at times sent along some of the best woods seen in the match. The two skips were not as brilliant as might have been expected, but both Brown and Grimmit, at times brought off spectacular and clever shots. The standard throughout was high and the inter-club selectors should have learned a good many things by watching Sunday's game.

SINGLE AND SPEY ROYAL

The singles championship will not stage nearer the end during this week-end, before long the finalists will be selected. With regard to the Spey Royal, Craighower may find some consolation this year by winning that instead of the first division shield. Both are coveted trophies, and by getting one of them Craighower would still find themselves among the best bowling talent in the Colony. Incidentally Craighower's representative might win the Singles champions and if the Civil Service can win the first division, the Happy Valley Clubs will be doing well indeed. The Police finish fourth in the league so altogether the Happy Valley Clubs are, for the moment, much better off than the Kowloon Clubs.

JUNIOR GAMES

The junior league leaders both suffered defeat during the week-end, but there is no change in the league position and it still looks as if Craighower will have plenty to say with regard to the final standings of the junior teams at the end of the season. The Indians, it will be recalled, only won one match this year, and that against the Club de Recreio, but the Portuguese had their own back on Saturday when they trounced the Indians at King's Park to the extent of 49 shots, the biggest defeat being shown by Hyder's rink, which went under to Rozario's rink by 28 shots. The Indian's first year in local lawn bowls has proved disastrous, but if they persist, they should make a name for themselves in the course of a few years when they get to understand the game better.

THE GYMKHANA

The Gymkhana on Saturday was a thoroughly enjoyable affair and although the programme was a very ambitious one for a first effort, yet, as it happened, all who attended saw an excellent afternoon's sport. Perhaps in future, heats might be held so that the number of starters in each event might not be quite so heavy. As things were, it was sometimes difficult to follow the progress of the competition because of the number of participants. The tent pegging was an interesting item, but competitors showed that they lacked practice and in the entries for the open event only one person managed to lift the peg all three times. The M.G.T. tent pegging was also interesting, but not a single competitor managed to get the peg more than twice!

AQUATICS

The announcement made in yesterday's paper that Hong Kong is to have an inter-club swimming match with Shanghai after all must come as a very welcome surprise to those who follow local aquatics. Officially, it will be a contest between the V.R.C. and the Foreign Y.M.C.A. in Shanghai, but I am given to understand that the visitors will include the best swimming talent of the Northern port. In entertaining them, and in matching them against the best swimmers in the Colony, the V.R.C. deserves the congratulations of the community for here is the prospect of a swimming meeting that will be worth going a long way to see. Frankly, I am glad the V.R.C. has succeeded in staging an inter-club, as they have the best swimmers in their club and are fully able to give the visitors a run for their money.

THOSE CHAMPIONSHIPS

The local swimming championships will be staged between September 25 and 28 and there is sure to be some good racing. These championship events are well calculated to bring Hong Kong's representative into their best form just about the time the inter-club due. There is sure to be keen rivalry between the competitors as the championships will be more or less inter-club trials. The Hong Kong Amateur Swimming Association held their heats during the past week-end and although there was plenty of keen competition, the standard was not very high. However, the finals this week might reveal something quite different. The ladies' events suffered the most as the suspension of two European ladies coupled with the indisposition of the leading Chinese lady swimmer has rendered the entries rather limited. Kwok Chung Hung's exhibition in the 200 yards breast strokes was the only event in which the time returned was encouraging.

TENNIS

With the completion of most of the fixtures in the "A" and "B" Divisions of the Tennis League the season is fast drawing to a close. Most of the unfinished matches are in "C" Division and these should be finished by the middle of September.

In the "A" Division the Chinese R.C. "B" lost another game when they went down to H.K.C.C. on Thursday. They were easily beaten but this was chiefly due to the Lo Brothers (Horace and M.H.) being badly off form. They could do nothing right and lost all their three sets. On Tuesday the losers met Craighower away and they were lucky to draw. In the last set Leonard and Lai (Craighower) had the match well in hand and were at match point once but they let the game slip and could do no better than draw the set, making the whole match a draw.

CIVIL SERVANTS BEATEN

On Tuesday the Indian R.C. "B" ended their season with a win over Civil Service by the odd set. The losers were a pair short and had to concede three sets but their four men fought hard and the Indians only just forced a win. As the score indicates there is little doubt that if the "Servants" had been at full strength the result would have been reversed. The Universal "B" have been unsuccessful this year and last week they kept up their record of no matches won by losing to K.C.C. on the latter's courts. They are, of course, at the bottom of the League table, with six games lost. The Peninsula Team stand about middle in the "B" table and this is a fair indication of their strength. They have good players but they do not seem to be able to field a regular team and this makes a lot of difference. H.K.C.C. and the Civil Servants have only had rather lean seasons and they will probably tie for the runner-up position—at the wrong end of the table.

RECREIO TROUNCED

In the "C" division the C.R.C. "D" surmounted one of their great obstacles in the fight for Championship honours when they trounced Recreio, their most serious rivals, by seven sets to two on Saturday. The Portuguese team had been close upon the Chinese for some time and the latter are to be congratulated on tackling a dangerous foe with such ease. The Recreio players seemed unduly conscious of the importance of the match, and with the exception of L. Xavier and L. F. Ribeiro, they played below form. Xavier and Ribeiro rose to the occasion and got two sets, but found W. C. Lau and B. C. Liang too good for them. By this victory the C.R.C. have

AMERICAN MEN'S TENNIS TITLE

Shields And Parker In Final

Brookline, Aug. 29.

FRANK X. SHIELDS and Frank Parker, the youthful American players, will meet Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull, the Australian combination, in the Final Round of the American National Men's Lawn Tennis Doubles Championship to-day.

Yesterday Shields and Parker beat Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill, National champions, by 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.—Reuters.

made themselves, practically safe for the "C" title. Kowloon are the nearest to them now and it is very doubtful if the Peninsula team can beat them where Recreio have failed.

U.S. WOMEN'S GOLF TITLE

Miss Wilson Leads American Players

New York, Aug. 28.

MISS Enid Wilson, Britain's foremost lady golfer, who is making a further bid to capture the American title, revealed splendid form in the qualifying round to-day.

The championship is this year being played over the Exmoor Country Club's course near Highland Park, Illinois, and a medal round of eighteen holes was played to-day, the best sixty-four scores qualifying.

Miss Enid Wilson returned a card of 78, two better than her nearest American rivals.

The leading American players were bunched in second place, Miss Orenit, Miss van Wie and Miss Helen Hicks all returning cards of 78.

It will be recalled that after winning the British ladies' open championship once again, Miss Enid Wilson declared her intention of giving up competitive golf. She was, however, unable to resist the temptation of making one more attempt to win the American title.—Reuters.

Hyde Lay settled the issue almost when he took three shots in the 21st head to lead by 19-14. This head was short to medium and Coates was lying three with Hyde Lay having two back woods. The Kowloon player managed to carry the jack to lie two and with his last shot drew a third.

Once again Coates came up to the scratch and in the very next head, he was lying three with Hyde Lay lying the fourth shot. In his attempt to score a four, Coates promoted Hyde Lay's shot slightly so that it was third shot and instead of getting three (or possibly four) Coates' last wood enabled him to score only 2. He added one more in the 23rd head to make the score 19-17, but in the twenty-fourth head, Hyde Lay, playing to a short head, was again brilliant and Coates was lucky to one of his woods to secure second shot. In the last head, Coates was again lying two, when with his very last wood Hyde Lay carried the jack to lie two and Coates could not alter the situation with his last bowl.

Hyde Lay thus enters the singles final for the first time. He will meet the winner of the Luz (Continued on next column).

LEAGUE TENNIS

C.R.C. Win In "A" & "C" Divisions

The Chinese Recreation Club advanced further in the "A" and "C" Divisions yesterday when they easily beat Craighower and the Police, respectively, at Causeway Bay.

The Valley team were no match for them and could not take a set, but J. W. Leonard and G. Lai gave a lot of trouble to M. W. Lo and Tsui Wai Fui and K. C. Ng and T. C. Chiu before they went under.

An unusual incident occurred in the "C" Division match K. M. Wong and H. O. Tso were playing Pile and Carruthers when Tso was attacked by a fit of vomiting and had to retire with the score 2-0 against his pair.

W. K. Cheung and T. W. Lau dropped the Chinese other set, to Pile and Carruthers, who were in good form.

BIG FIRE IN KOBE

MESSRS. WINCKLER'S GODOWN BURNED.

On the afternoon of August 19, there was a great hooting of fire engines as they hurried to Hachiman-deri, where Messrs. Winckler and Co.'s three-story red-brick godown was on fire, and blazing fiercely.

By their prompt attendance the fire brigade prevented the fire from spreading to the adjacent buildings, and both the office and the cotton godown were saved.

Particulars are not available at the time of writing, but so far as could be seen on the spot, the fire began and remained in the top floor. That, however, was burnt out, the roof being destroyed very rapidly. Whether the middle floor suffered anything but water damage could not be seen.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT)

Fire Brigade Officer's Story Of Rescue Work

BRAVERY & PERSISTENCE OF RESCUERS

The big fire at Mongkok on the 9th inst., in which seven people were killed, was recalled at an enquiry held yesterday at the Kowloon Magistracy into the circumstances of the disaster.

Mr. H. R. Butters acted as Coroner and Messrs. H. J. D. Lowe, T. Wong and W. Saunders formed the jury.

Formal medical evidence was given by Dr. J. B. Mackie, of the Kowloon Mortuary, who conducted a post-mortem examination on the bodies at the Mortuary. He found that one of the victims, the pastry-cook Poon Sam, who, it will be recalled, fell from the drain-pipe of the second storey of one of the houses, met his death through concussion on falling from a height. The other six had all been killed as the result of burns and shock.

Fireman's Vivid Story.

A graphic description of the rescue work was given by officer A. J. Cash of the Mongkok Fire Station. He said that when he arrived at the scene of the fire in Reclamation Street the flames had already gained a good hold on the houses No. 393 and 395. The ground floor, first and second floors of No. 393 were well involved as was the third floor, though to a much lesser extent. Flames were streaming out of the windows of the various floors. The first and second floors of 395 were also involved but the ground floor was untouched. The houses were attached and communicated on the upper floors by a wooden staircase.

Witness made enquiries to ascertain whether there were any people in the buildings but replies were not satisfactory. He then entered the second floor of No. 397 by a fire escape in an attempt to get into No. 395 from there, but found his way stopped by barbed wire entanglements. He replaced the ladder to the first floor of 395 and was successful in getting in by this way.

Cries For Help.

The time was approximately 2.50 a.m. Mr. G. C. Moss of the Kowloon Fire Brigade arrived then and told witness that he could hear cries from the rear of the first floor of No. 395.

Witness sent for a lowering line and went up to the roof with several firemen. They got to the roof by the staircase of house No. 289. Passing the kitchen window of No. 393 witness saw a movement, and a Chinese male got onto the ledge of the window. Witness called out to him but there was a lot of noise at the time and it was very difficult to hear. Eventually the man heard and got back into the kitchen.

The lowering-line arrived now and witness was about to lower himself down to the kitchen when he again saw the man. This time he was climbing down a drain-pipe towards the floor below. Witness called out to him but he took no notice. When he reached the next floor flames came out of one of the windows and he was caught in them. He had to release his hold on the pipe and fell about 40 feet down to the ground.

Witness now descended to the kitchen and found it packed with a number of Chinese in various stages of collapse.

Rescued With Lines.

The place was full of smoke but there were no flames.

The people nearest to the window were in better condition than the others who had less air. Witness concentrated on them first and five of them were evacuated by lines with the assistance of Mr. Moss on the roof. This work took some time and the kitchen was becoming untenable. Then two more people were got out. These were absolutely unconscious. Six more people were left in the kitchen and of these four were quite unconscious. The window was very small and it was prac-

We have, all of us, heard a lot about "Madame Jotte" which was given with so much success by the Recrelo Amateur Players, and because of this, perhaps some of us would like to hear more about the Club, its members and their activities.

Let it be understood, first, that I am not going into the history of the Club, but I shall try to confine myself to the progress it has made during the past ten years or so.

To go back, just a little, however, Club de Recrelo first had its home along Nathan Road, and as some of my readers might recall, there were about four tennis courts and even then, these were some little distance across the road from the Club.

When the King's Park recreation grounds were ready, Recrelo were allotted the beautiful plot which they now occupy. For a start, the pavilion took the shape of a modest little matshed, but soon building was commenced and shortly afterwards their spacious pavilion was opened. It is perhaps one of the nicest pavilions in the Colony—in my opinion it certainly was that until the Kowloon Cricket Club put up their new clubhouse.

All Sports.

When they first removed to their new home, the members of the Club only played tennis and a little cricket; but since then they have taken up lawn bowls and also soccer. For a time, they also played baseball but as this clashed with tennis and lawn bowls in the summer months, they very wisely left it alone.

A few years ago, they took to hockey and so keen were they about it that they managed to instill some of the enthusiasm into the ladies who are one of the strongest women teams playing to-day.

To review their prowess in these different games, one would perhaps say that Recrelo have been more than successful in lawn bowls and football. In the former, they have, boasted, the Colony's singles champion amongst their members on more than one occasion, while their football eleven were always looked upon as a very formidable lot. In tennis also Recrelo have given some of the older clubs some tough opposition and it was no doubt a source of great disappointment to their supporters that they should have lost their game to the C. R. C. last Saturday. Had they won, it would probably have meant the championship of the "C" division of the local tennis league for them for 1933.

A fine Fielding Side.

It is an acknowledged fact that Club de Recrelo's cricket team is about the best fielding eleven in the second division of the Hong Kong Cricket League. They have occupied a very high place in the league table ever since they entered the league as far back as 1924, but somehow or other, they never managed to get higher than the second position.

It has been said that the Indian Recreation Club's second string are always the cause of their downfall, and as one who has followed the progress of these two teams for a very long time, I am rather inclined to hold that view myself. With all respects to the Recrelo team, I confidently predict that the day they start paying more attention to the finer points of the game, they will make much improvement in their all-round play. Batting is their weak point but this can be remedied, especially as they have some very promising material amongst the younger members.

So much for the sporting side of the Club. What about the social life? In this Club, there are plenty of social activities. Dances, whist drives, musical revues and more serious plays—these have all been attempted and all with unbounded success. It is an acknowledged fact that in the Portuguese community, there is plenty of musical talent, but if one gave the matter a close study, it would be astonishing to see how much there is.

Recrelo may indeed be named as an emblem of hospitality, for any one visiting the Club is made to feel perfectly at home, and that is why all the cricket, tennis and lawn bowls teams all look forward to a game in this club, for it does not matter what game is going on, it is played in the most sporting and friendly spirit.

SOUTHAMPTON SIGN COOK

Schoolboy Star For Norwich City

(Special Air-Mail Service)

George Kay, manager of the Southampton Football Club, made an important capture when he signed Fred Cook, the Portsmouth and Welsh international outside left.

Cook was kept out of Portsmouth's team last season by a knee injury, but he has had a cartilage removed and is now reported fit. If he has completely recovered he will be a valuable man for the Saints. Cook has nine international caps.

Norwich City signed Thomas Halliday, a north country half-back, who made 41 appearances for Darlington last season. Halliday is twenty-three years old. His best position is centre half-back. He is a schoolboy international and he captained England against Wales.

E. Earle, an outside left, formerly with Burnley, has been signed by Crystal Palace.

Earle, who was on the Lancashire club's transfer list at a big fee, spent the last three seasons with Boston (Lincolnshire). He is 5-ft. 10-in. tall and weighs 12st. Practice matches will be held at Selhurst Park on August 12 and 19 (kick-off 2.30)

PUBLIC SCHOOLS
AT LORD'S

Rugby v. Marlborough

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, Aug. 29.
Rugby and Marlborough were able to start their match at Lord's yesterday in perfect cricket weather, in marked contrast to the experience of the previous year, when eight Marlborough wickets fell for 36 and rain then washed out the match. This time Rugby batted first and, thanks largely to a splendid partnership of over 100 by the opening pair, made a total of 246 in three and a half hours. The Marlborough innings developed into a serious collapse, and at the close of play they were 114 runs behind with only two wickets to fall.

D.E.C. Steel and A. A. Duncan, by scoring 115 in the first hour and a half, seemed to have shown the way to a large Rugby score. It was not merely the runs but the way they got them. Both batsmen stepped out well to the pitch of the ball when it came to them at a medium pace, and, as the faster bowling often was of a poor length, they scored at a good rate off that also. The runs generally came either from clean, hard drives through the covers to the short boundary in front of the Mound stand, or from hits to leg off loose balls. As in the Clifton and Tonbridge match, there were far too many full pitched balls and long hops sent down.

On the other hand, just before the first wicket fell and for a time afterwards, one of the Rugby men, J. D. L. Dickson, had a remarkably accurate spell of bowling. Dickson went on at 29 and sent down seven maiden overs in succession while capturing three wickets. Steel was caught in the slips at the total of 115, J. E. A. Baker was bowled for a single at 121, then, between whistles as it were, M. M. Walford fell almost at once to H. D. Napper, and next, at the same score of 126, Dickson bowled Duncan. Dickson finished with an analysis of five for 43, a fair reward for his accuracy and capacity for keeping the ball well pitched up, sometimes in the form of a yorker.

Four wickets down for 126, after such a fine score, was disappointing for Rugby, who then had to depend on a good deal on the steadiness of their No. 5, N. G. H. Bell, who made 44 of the 85 runs added by the next three wickets. Undoubtedly Bell's excellent combination of confidence and restraint was mainly responsible for throwing the Marlborough bowlers out of their stride just when they seemed to be gaining the upper hand. E. S. Boyes, who helped to put on 51 for the critical fifth wicket, was lucky not to have been run out just before lunch when he had made only two and the total was 128. A sharp but awkward return was fumbled by the wicket-keeper and Boyes scrambled back to safety. Boyes eventually was bowled by a leg-spinner that kept low and, though Bell kept scoring steadily and P. M. Dowson, who hit up 17 in a promising manner, saw the 300 up, the score was disappointing when Bell was the seventh man out at 211. Bell appeared to be bowled off his foot in attempting to hit a ball from Trevasakis round to leg. R. S. Cranston and R. West could not stay in long, but I. N. R. Shield somehow managed to stick there while his captain, J. A. Gemmill, hit up 26 of the 27 put on for the last wicket.

Rugby's total of 246 even then did not look large enough to frighten a side like Marlborough, who had beaten Winchester, Wellington, and Cheltenham, and drawn a game at Harrow. And it certainly failed to impress either of the Marlborough first pair unduly. L. H. Waddy was playing confidently enough when he tried to drive a ball from the left-handed and exceptionally tall Gemmill, and edged a catch into the slips instead. G. M. Alston, who played a free stroke to nearly every ball sent down to him, fast or slow, was more successful, and hit up 34 out of the 47 runs made while he was in. That was not long, no more than 35 minutes, but the fact seemed a tribute to the batting rather than to the bowling. The fielding of both sides was splendidly keen as a whole, very few runs being given away, and hardly a catch being missed.

Alston fell to a really wonderful effort in the slips by Gemmill, who, by flinging the full length of his left arm, at a rising ball cut high, made a catch that would have escaped most people by a yard. E. D. Napper made 29 of the next 26 runs and then mis-hit a quick catch to second slip off Gemmill's bowling. This also was an unexpected ending to a highly promising innings. A. C. O. Hughes, who kept an end up for an hour for eight runs, was the fourth man out at 86. P. M. Whitehouse had his wicket thrown down by mid-off in attempting a rather foolish single at 119, and in a poor light three more wickets fell one after the other in the closing minutes. One of these belonged to

THE SINGAPORE
CRICKET CLUB

Deficit Of $1,114

Singapore, August 21.
Singapore Cricket Club committee reports an improvement in the club's cash position and the deficit for the year $1,114 is not considered unsatisfactory in the circumstances. Income was lower than for many years and expenditure had to be watched and curtailed as the income continued to fall. Drastic economies were made in a number of directions. Income showed a tendency to increase towards the end of the year.

Members' account. In debit amounting to $1,911.06 represented balances of out station members and the accumulation of small debit balances in respect of the last month of the financial year, paid five for 10.

The number of active members at the close of the year was 683 as against 756 in June, 1932.

The ground was maintained in excellent condition; the tennis court area was forked during the months of November of December and top dressed with new soil and chemical fertilizer.

After lengthy negotiations with the Government, a revised licence was obtained, whereby the Club is granted better facilities for the control of the ground, especially as regards crowds at football matches. The revised licence also permits enclosures to be made and this concession should incidentally assist in increasing the revenue of the Club.

Bowls Revived.

Largely due to the energies of Mr. E. B. Evans, the bowling section of the Club was revived and matches were played against the Australian "Show Boat" and Tanglin Club teams, both matches being won by the S.C.C.
An American Bowling Tournament was recently held and was well supported. 14 couples entered. This tournament lasted for six weeks, the handicapped event being won by Messrs. G. Cameron and E. Fozard and the scratch event by H. Gray and E. B. Evans.

THE BANFF
CONFERENCEGloomy View Of Eastern Situation

Banff, Aug. 23.—Delegates attending the fifth biennial conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations today agreed that warfare in the Pacific is inevitable in the next few years unless governments cooperate to solve the rapidly growing complexities and conflicts.

With this danger in mind, delegates sought to find a solution of the Oriental exclusion problem in the United States and Canada, and the Anglo-Japanese textile disputes in India.

The Chinese and Japanese delegates opened confidential discussions in an attempt to obtain a modification of American and Canadian exclusion laws.

It was emphasized that a small quota on Oriental immigration would accomplish the same results as exclusion, and at the same time appease national feeling.

A meeting between Japanese and British delegates was confidentially exploring the Anglo-Japanese textile issue.

Peace Machinery.

Banff, Alta., Aug. 23.—A proposal for reorganization of the peace machinery of the Pacific area, advanced by Japanese delegates, was supported today at the Institute of Pacific Relations by Sir Herbert Samuel of Great Britain, but bitterly opposed by the Chinese spokesmen.

The Japanese urged that provisions of the existing peace machinery covering "alteration of the status quo" should be made operative and outlined a draft of a new security pact which included many provisions of present treaties and of the so-called Hoover-Stimson doctrine of non-recognition of states set up as a result of military action, such as Manchukuo.

Sir Herbert, the former British home Secretary and Liberal party leader, gave his support in reporting to the plenary conference of the institute for the four round table conferences that have been in progress.

A spokesman for the Chinese delegation said that China finds itself "absolutely unable" to consider such a proposal as submitted by the Japanese.

The plan, he said, would have been "satisfactory" if Japan had not violated the Nine-Power Pacific treaty, the Kellogg pact outlawing war and the League of Nations covenant by its actions in Manchuria in the last two years, resulting in the establishment of Manchukuo.

Until these wrongs have been righted and Manchukuo abolished China cannot and will not be a party to such a proposal," he declared.

The Chinese delegate said that at the round table conference led by Sir Samuel it was agreed that emigration was not a solution of the pressing population problem for Japan, but that birth control might be. With a population of 10,000,000 in the next generation rather than the present 80,000,000 in Japan that country's problem will be considerably aggravated, it was pointed out.

The British leader dwelt on the possibilities of great trade changes that might be made possible by the substitution of wool for cotton and cheaper materials in the Orient, and also which might result were the use of wheat to be widely introduced.

DEFRAUDING TUNG WAH
HOSPITAL

Further Evidence Called

The case in which four Chinese were charged with attempting to defraud the Tung Wah Hospital authorities in connection with the removal of human bones from the Government Civil Hospital site in Pokfulam for reburial at Apichau came before Mr. Schofield again, at Central Magistracy, yesterday.

The defendants were Chan Kau, Wong Kwai Chi, Hui Kwong, Chan Sui and Cheung Tak. The second, and third defendants being represented by Mr. F. X. D'Almeida.

Mr. M. K. Lo was for the prosecution and Inspector A. H. Elston watched the case for the S.C.A.

The fourth defendant was discharged at an earlier hearing and after evidence was taken yesterday, the case was adjourned till this afternoon.

Two hundred and fifty-four foreign newspapers have been barred from Germany, chiefly for criticizing the government of Chancellor Hitler. Czechoslovakian papers lead the forbidden list with 86.

SHYOK DAM
BURSTSNot Expected To Cause Much Damage

Simla, Aug. 29.

REPORTS of the bursting of the great Shyok Dam in the Himalayas have been confirmed.

When the dam burst in 1929 disastrous floods caused loss of life and much damage to property, but the present floods are not so serious and are not likely to last long.

The waters are expected to reach the Sukkur Barrage in Sind, in a week's time, when they will be dissipated.—Reuter.

ALLEGED FORGER AT CANTON

Wong Man, a Chinese aged thirty four, has been arrested by the Canton police for endeavouring to pass what is said to be a spurious five hundred dollar banknote. In design the note is similar to those issued by the Chartered Bank, and Wong Man is said to have uttered the forgery at the Fakhshan Refreshment Rooms on Sunday afternoon. The cashier of the tea rooms realised that the note was spurious and refused to cash it and before Wong Man could make a getaway the police were informed.

TREASURE FROM THE EGYPT

Efficacy Of Suction Salvage

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, Aug. 9.
The salvage ship Artiglio arrived at Plymouth at 12.30 p.m. on Saturday and landed 162 bars of silver, 13 bars of gold, and about 15,000 loose sovereigns, recovered from the wreck of the Egypt. This latest haul represents a value of over £36,000. At 6 o'clock the ship left again for Brest.

During the present season the Sorima Company has achieved a remarkable success. Bullion has hitherto been recovered from the wreck by means of grabs, which have already been described in "The Times." But it was expected this year that owing to the position of the remaining bullion in the Egypt's strong-room the use of the grab would be less efficacious. The Sorima Company therefore set to work to evolve an appliance which would more easily collect the scattered metal.

The chief diver, Signor Mario Raffaelli, succeeded in devising an apparatus in the form of a metallic tube, the internal volume of which is 3 cubic metres. The lower end of the tube is closed by a special glass covering. Air is pumped from the tube, causing a vacuum, and it is then lowered into the hold, directed by the diver. When it has been manoeuvred into the required position the glass is broken by a special device and the powerful inrush of water into the tube carries a quantity of the scattered metal with it.

The success of this new apparatus and the realization of its inventor's hopes may be judged by the fact that at its first trial on Thursday the tube recovered more than 6,000 sovereigns, several small bars of gold, and one bar of silver, weighing more than 10,000 ounces. It is believed that this is the first time that this method of suction has been used in salvage operations, and there is no doubt that it will open up new possibilities not only in the salvage of bullion, but also for salvage operations generally.

BACK TO STEAM

CONVERSION OF TWO CRACK MOTOR SHIPS.

It is not often nowadays that one hears of motor engines being abandoned in favour of steam, yet the two R.M.S.P. Co.'s crack ships, Asturias and Alcantara, are now being re-engined by Harland and Wolff and are to be steamers in future. The decision for this conversion is due to the need for speeding up the River Plate services to meet foreign competition. Of recent years many ships with speeds up to 20 knots have been placed on the run, and our best vessels, mostly of ten to fifteen years of age, are showing badly in comparison. In adopting steam as the new propulsion, Lord Essendon, the mind behind the decision, has taken the only course open. Geared turbines and high pressure boilers feeding super-heated steam will take up little more space than the Diesels. The ships are also to be modernised in other ways, the passenger accommodation will be brought into line with present day luxury, and the fore end of the ships will be altered with a view of obtaining still greater speed and economy.
